Power Down

With the ringing of the eight o'clock bell on the first day of school, we said so long to summer fun — the outdoor parties, the family vacations, the lazy afternoons spent watching "All My Children" and "The Young and the Restless."

It took a lot of self-discipline and will-power to get back into the swing of things — getting out of bed before lunchtime, staying inside classrooms all day, taking books home (to study?) — but we looked forward to the school year ahead, knowing that it would be power-packed with all kinds of fun.

Full Power

The start of the new school year brought with it the promise of fun — pep-rallies, football games, and even a few “monkey shines.”

But fun doesn't just happen. Hours of preparation are required to “Make it Happen,” a phrase which became the school's motto for the year.

Determined, we squared our shoulders, fixed our eyes on our goals, and went for it, full power ahead.

Power Surge

All that was left of the class of '83 were a few memories and a Chief head mounted on the front of the building.

The new class of seniors crammed all their books, notes and other junk into the senior lockers and all the other classes followed suit.

As we settled in for the year, we decided not to let the changes stand in the way. We burst through the old and into the new with a fresh surge of power.

When it comes to finding things to do, there's no one more imaginative and crazy than kids. And you can almost guarantee that no matter what they come up with, it will be barrels of fun. It doesn't make a lick of difference whether it's work or play, inside class or out, they are ready to take power and have a ball.

Flurry of Events Accompanies

Ask almost anyone and they would say that the biggest, busiest event of the school year is Homecoming. Even though the activities last just a few days, preparations start weeks in advance.

Class and club meetings are held to come up with theme ideas for float and spirit signs. Student Council members decide on the various themes for the dress-up days and think up new ideas to make this Homecoming unique and different from the previous years.

Committees are then formed to carry the idea through.

Homecoming week provides the opportunity for the junior class to raise money for the Junior/Senior prom. This year's fund-raisers included mum sales and a football chain competition between classes.

Before school and during both lunches, hats were passed around in a mad scramble for loose change.

Trying to get things ready seems like a jumble of pandemonium, but as the big event draws nearer and nearer, everything starts falling into place, progress is made, and last minute details are attended to. All that's left is waiting for the chance to show off what we've accomplished.

Homecoming Week

Students Find 'Double Trouble'

Creative juices flowed and moms' sewing machines worked overtime as costumes were put together for the dress-up days during Homecoming week.

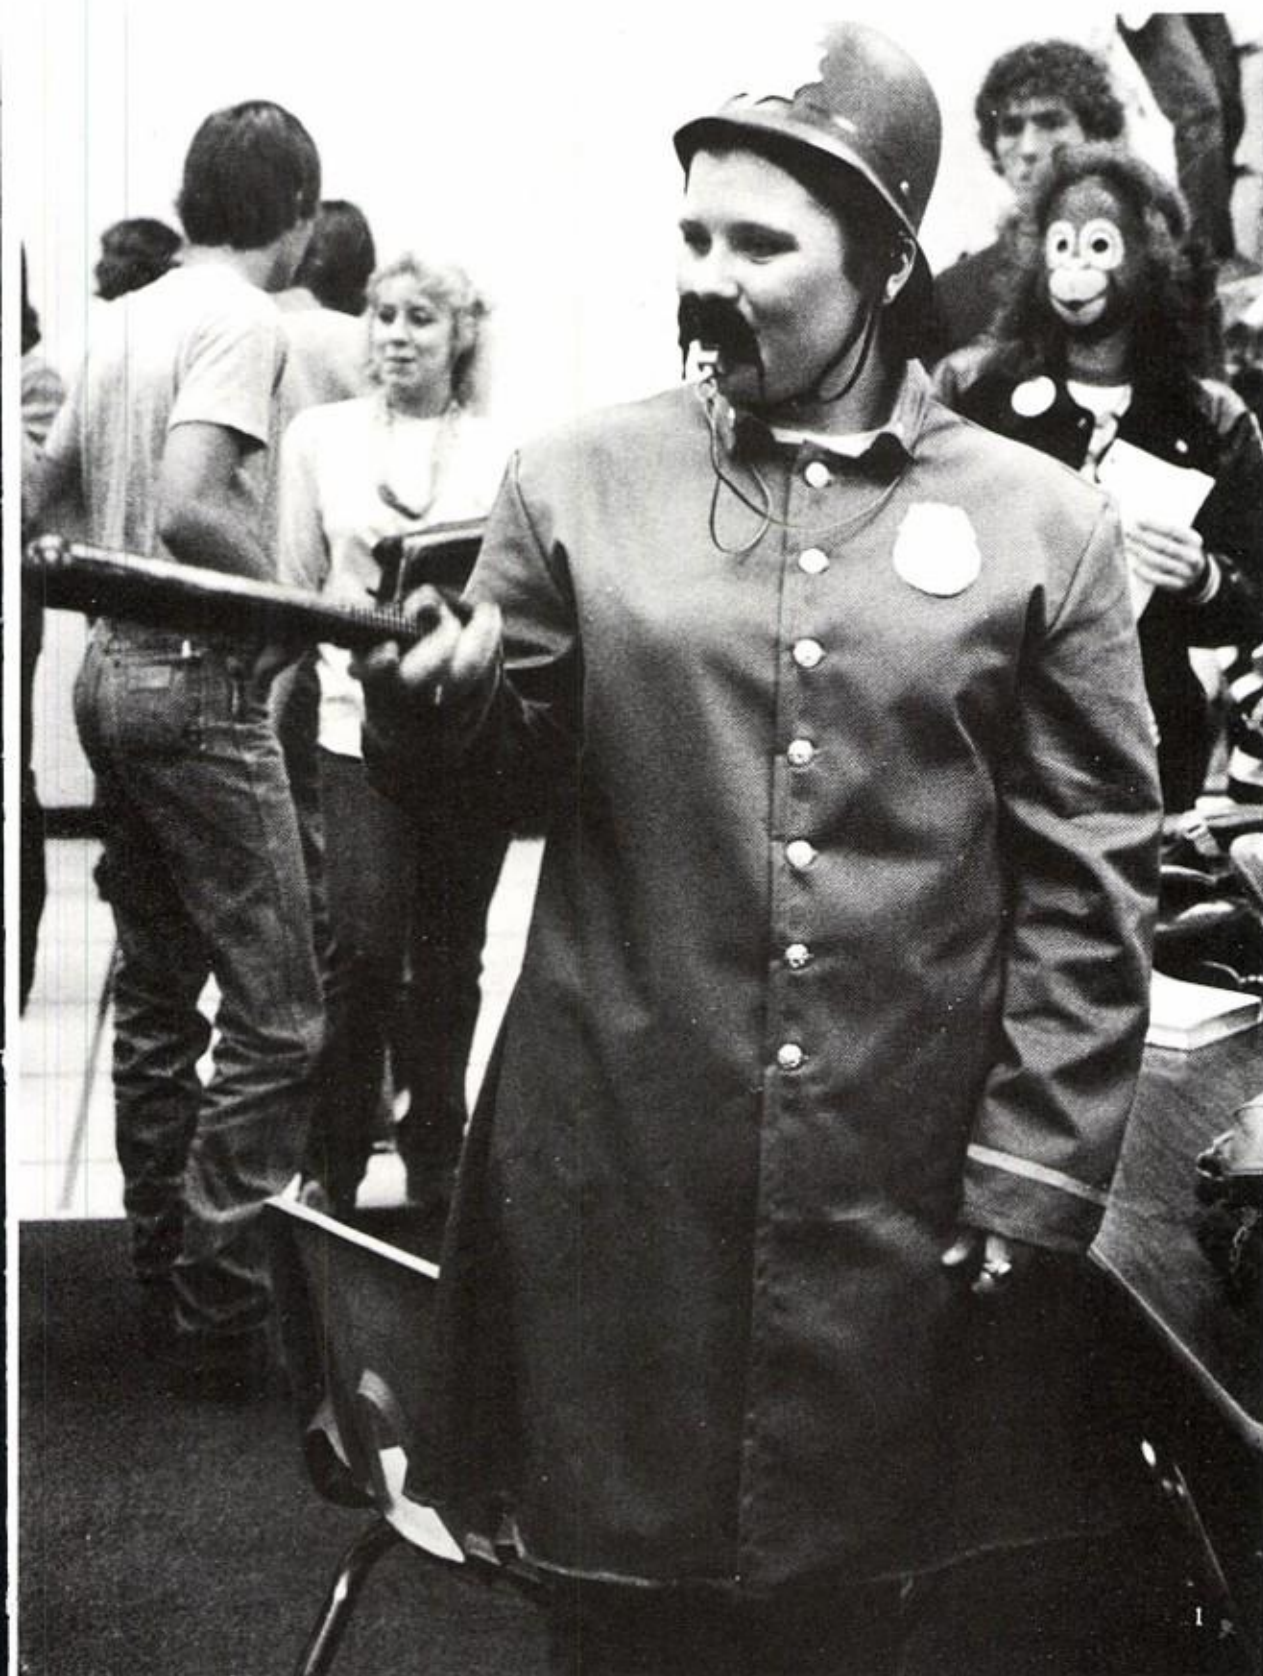

"Sack Day" started out the week of undercover affairs with students arriving at school wearing decorated grocery bags over their heads.

Things got doubly fun on "Double Trouble Day" when two friends dressed alike or came in pairs.

The traditional "Masquerade Day" followed, when a bizarre assortment of strange creatures, weird personalities, and other unidentifiable objects roamed the halls.

Colorful poodle skirts and slicked-back hair were the vogue on "Fifties Day," when the week of playing dress-up ended.

Rain Doesn't Dampen Spirits

Homecoming action really picks up on the night before the football game, when enthusiasm starts building in anticipation and expectancy.

The evening's events start out with the parade. This year there were more float entries than in previous years, and the parade route was longer — and wetter, thanks to the much-needed rains that fell during the week.

Band members and Chiefettes marched 3.5 miles to the bonfire site, where seniors Mike Helms and Sheila Gordon were crowned Mr. and Miss Flame before an excited group of spectators.

The bonfire, built out of soggy scrap lumber that the bonfire committee had been gathering since early that morning, only sputtered and died out when lit. But determination to get things warmed up, along with persistent chanting from the crowd, finally sparked a flame. The flame ignited and soon great waves of heat were forcing the assemblage to back away.

As the night wore on and the fire burned down to coals, most everyone headed to Shakey's Pizza Parlor. When everyone had had their fill of pizza, cartoons, and video games, they started heading home to dream about the big game. All except the Chiefettes — they headed for the nearest supply of toilet paper to get stocked up for the Big Wrap!

Friday, the last day of Homecoming activities, was a day for the entire student body to "shake, rattle and roll."

The dress-up theme was fifties style, and the pep rally followed the same fashion. Pink lipstick and brightly-colored poodle skirts and scarves gaily illuminated the gym as the cheerleaders and Chiefettes performed a routine to "Rock Around the Clock." The True Blue Spirit Crew, with greased-back hair and cigarette packages rolled up in their T-shirt sleeves, helped with the rendition.

After school, the mum orders had been filled and members of the junior class were busy with deliveries.

At the football game later Friday evening, spectators had their own opportunity to "shake, rattle, and roll" with the shaker-milk-jug-noise-makers provided by the Student Council. During the half-time activities, Bonnie Edwards was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1983. Her court included Julie Cornelius, Sheila Gordon, Lynne Hardy, Lori Hoelscher, Rikke Letcher, and Cheryl Waren. The Chief football team performed some of their own rock 'n roll as they rattled the Fort Stockton Panthers 30-6.

Following the game, the traditional Homecoming dance was held in the student center, which was decorated for the occasion with helium balloons and ceiling ornaments. Students donned semi-formal attire and even a few exes showed up.

It was a civilized, normal end to one wild and crazy week.

Photographs and Memories

Ticket stubs, gum wrappers, and dried flowers. Faded beat tags, snapshots, and yellowed newspaper clippings. Sounds like some of the stuff found in the bottom of a garbage can, huh? But these things aren't throwaways; they have been carefully preserved and packed away. These are the ingredients of a scrapbook.

Just as no two fingerprints are the same, scrapbooks have their own individuality and uniqueness. Some may contain personal items that stand for various time periods of life while others may include medals, certificates, and ribbons won for excelling in a certain event.

Some clubs and organizations keep scrapbooks to record the events that happened during the year. For instance, Frank White, drama instructor, keeps a picture album of all the main events his classes are involved in.

Student Council historian, Angie Allen, said, "I've kept everything from the beginning of the year that pertains to Lake View High School for the Student Council scrapbook.

It's a big pain."

One of the biggest scrapbook projects of the year happens in the spring when the Chiefettes staple, paste, and tape newspaper clippings, locker signs, and football programs collected from the previous season into a scrapbook for each of the senior football players. According to senior Chiefette, Trudy Baker, an experienced hand who has made four football scrapbooks, a really good scrapbook takes about a month to finish if you work hard and fast. It should be at least four inches thick.

No matter what is bound between the covers, all scrapbooks record past events, special people, and days gone by. And they serve one main purpose: To Remember.

HEAVY METAL

Concerts! There is the usual backstage flurry. Lights and sound are checked and rechecked and the crowd roars — well at least they roar when there is a crowd.

Take for example the concert featuring the country and western band Atlanta; the roar from that "crowd" was little more than a murmur. There were approximately 200 people in attendance, one of the smallest audiences ever in San Angelo.

The reaction of most people is to say that if there were better bands there would be a better crowd. Huey Lewis and the News, Mel Tillis, Moe Bandy, Motley Crue, and Kiss, all rather big names in music, have been to San Angelo, but none have had enough of a crowd or money to make it worth their while for a repeat performance.

There are, however, some groups who always have a crowd, such as George Strait. The roar from a Strait crowd can definitely be heard.

But before the "big" names will ever come to San Angelo, the roar for the not-so-big names will have to be louder than a whisper.

COUNTRY-WESTERN

Braces are something many teenagers dread, but end up getting.

Lynne Hardy, senior, said, "There are a lot of pain and problems involved, but I know in the long run it will be worth it."

How long one has to wear braces is something many wonder about. Most of the time braces are removed within 2 to 3 years depending on the problem.

Lisa Glasscock, Junior, said, "The rubber bands were hard to keep on because they kept popping off."

Many teenagers may have trouble eating when their braces are first put on. Cleaning is an important task with braces.

Deborah Salvato, Sophomore, added that eating with braces takes a while to get used to. Also, keeping them clean is very important.

Another issue in receiving braces is the cost. The average cost of braces today is between $2000 and $3500, again depending on the problem.

Clint Simpson, freshman, said "I can't stand my braces and if my orthodontist doesn't take them off I may scream."

All in all most teenagers get used to wearing the braces and even come to regard them as an old friend.

Pantomime Night Sets Battle for Stardom

It was the fourth annual Pantomime of the Stars. Students were jumping up in the seats and waving their arms in the air just to get the stars' attention. Some of the stars even threw towels out into the audience so some lucky person could treasure it and have proof that they were at the concert.

The girls went crazy when George Strait, pantomimed by Coach Jim Slaughter, came out singing "You Look so Good in Love."

The crowd practically jumped on stage grabbing the legs of a few of the stars, almost making them trip.

Behind stage it was mass chaos. All the stars were fixing their hair, getting their guitars tuned up, making sure everybody in their group was ready to go on stage, and practicing their words to make sure they didn't forget them.

Excitement, Frenzy Add to Event

Knees could be heard knocking as each star's name was called to go on stage. Shaking and almost stumbling onto the stage the stars eyes were big with excitement and nervousness.

Once they saw the crowd and heard their whistling and cheering, the stars confidence grew.

First place went to Dean Gill, Robert Kibiloski, Joe Garza, Teresa Starkey, Gary Carroll, Efrain Velasquez, Philip Franco, Steven Graves with "No Parking on the Dance Floor." Second place went to Angie Allen, Don Ware, Robby Thornton, Elroy Green with "Karma Chameleon."

Third place went to Lori Hoelscher, Robin Shipman, Cheryl Waren, Beth Rittman, Tim Allen, and Terry Fay with "Thriller."

This year's One-Act play, "The Runner Stumbles," was based on a true story which took place in Solon, Michigan in 1911.

It is about a priest Father Rivard, who falls in love with a nun, Sister Rita. Sister Rita arrives to help in the parish school where Father Rivard is stationed. Sister Rita is forced, by uncontrollable circumstances, to move into the rectory with Father Rivard. This is when the priest is unable to control his feelings for her. She is mysteriously murdered and the priest is put on trail for murdering her.

The cast consisted of Lance Maxwell, Father Rivard; Julie Cornelius, Sister Rita; Don Ware, Toby Felker; Alva Munoz, Mrs. Shandig.

Also, Angie Allen, Erma Prindle; Vernon McKinney, Prosecutor; and Robby Thornton, Monsignor Nichlosen. Lynne Hardy was the technical assistant.

Learning what it's like to become a "parent" was taught in the Home and Family classes by Mrs. Reba Cost and Mrs. Beverly Nevins.

In each class "parents" received eggs as their babies. "The course objective was to simulate as nearly as possible what having a child would be like on a day-to-day basis," according to Mrs. Cost.

Each student gave his/her baby egg a birth certificate on which the baby's name, weight, and footprint was written.

"After the students painted faces and dressed the eggs they felt a sense of responsibility," said Mrs. Cost. "In fact, they became very possessive of their eggs."

The names for the eggs ranged from the most original to names such as Yolko Ono, Benedict, Gradey A., Olga M. Shell, and Justin Roper.

Some students had parents, friends and even teachers babysit their eggs — usual fee was 5¢ an hour. "Mrs. Jean Martin babysat my egg most of the time," said Stephen Parker, junior.

Keeping the egg in the refrigerator, in your locker, or in your car was not fair. The students had to bring their eggs to school three days and return them the third day undamaged.

"If the egg was returned broken, child abuse charges would be filed and the parent would have a court hearing in class with the class members as the jury," added Mrs. Cost.

Some eggs were even kidnapped and held for ransom. "They took my baby and wanted three cokes as ransom," said Craig Haynie, senior. "I gave them one coke and received my baby iuninjured."

But not only did the students learn a sense of responsibility, they also got a grade "based upon a diary of thoughts, feelings and actions during the process as well as an evaluation," said Mrs. Cost.

Dreams of Living in U.S. Come True for Carrie

School may be boring for most students here at Lake View High, but for one student it's like a dream come true.

Carrie Von Badewitz, a senior, is on the foreign exchange program which brought her here from Hannover in Northern West Germany. She is living with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stewart. "I really love the Stewarts, especially my new mom," said Carrie.

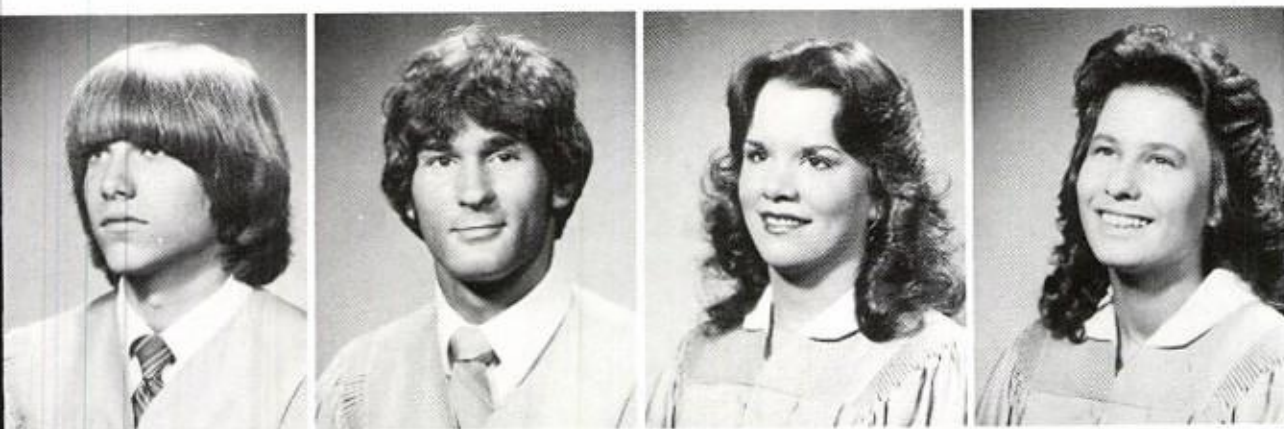

San Angelo is not the first place she has lived in the United States. She also lived in Winnsboro, Texas for four months before making Lake View permanent until July.

Actually, she has already graduated in Germany, but to go to a university she has to complete 13 years of school. Coming to the United States doesn't affect her academic ability one way or another. So when she goes back to Germany she will have to go one more year.

"I don't really miss my family at all — it's like a dream; it's a real strange feeling," said Carrie. She is not the first in her family to come to the United States. She has three sisters and brothers who range from two to 22 years of age. One sister lived in Kentucky for four years with the Program.

"I hoped to come over but I had no idea that I would get to," Carrie said. One reason she likes it over here is because the people are so nice. Another is she can still be active in her hobbies such as horseback riding, wind surfing, bicycle riding, and partying!

Two things really surprised her when she got here. One is the United States' dependence on cars because in Germany they always use buses and trains. Another is how much Americans watch television — day and night, television, television, television!

ashion, Fashion, Fashion. It changes from year to year, season to season — in an array of styles, colors, and fabrics.

Different styles, such as prep, punk, new wave, flashdance, and country were prevalent this year.

Ragland sleeves, oversized jackets and padded shoulders on just about everything were hot items this year.

Hats for those with a little flair for fashion were occasionally seen, even in conservative West Texas.

For the males, the preppie look was still good with Izods, Polos, oxfords, and OP's found in many a young man's closet.

Knit ties were also back for casual wear; and on the well shod foot, boaters could be found.

The western look, never out of style in San Angelo, featured Wranglers, western shirts and of course, boots. These items were not limited just to the males, however, as many females could be seen in their jeans and ropers.

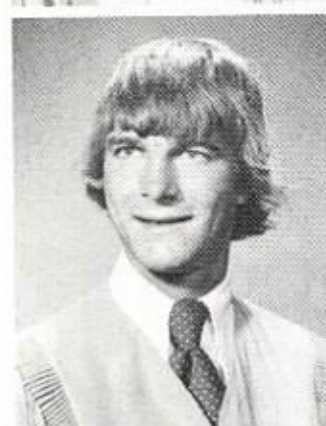

The only absolute about high fashion is that of change — from year to year, from season to season, almost day to day.

Boys Give Up Manual Labor

JOBS WANTED

Teenage, dependable, experienced male needs job fast. Babysitting preferred.

This is not an uncommon sight in today's society. Now more and more boys are tossing the shovels, and getting into more menial type labor . . . babysitting.

"It's sorta fun listening to all the wild stories they can tell," said Jerry Bob Bristo, junior.

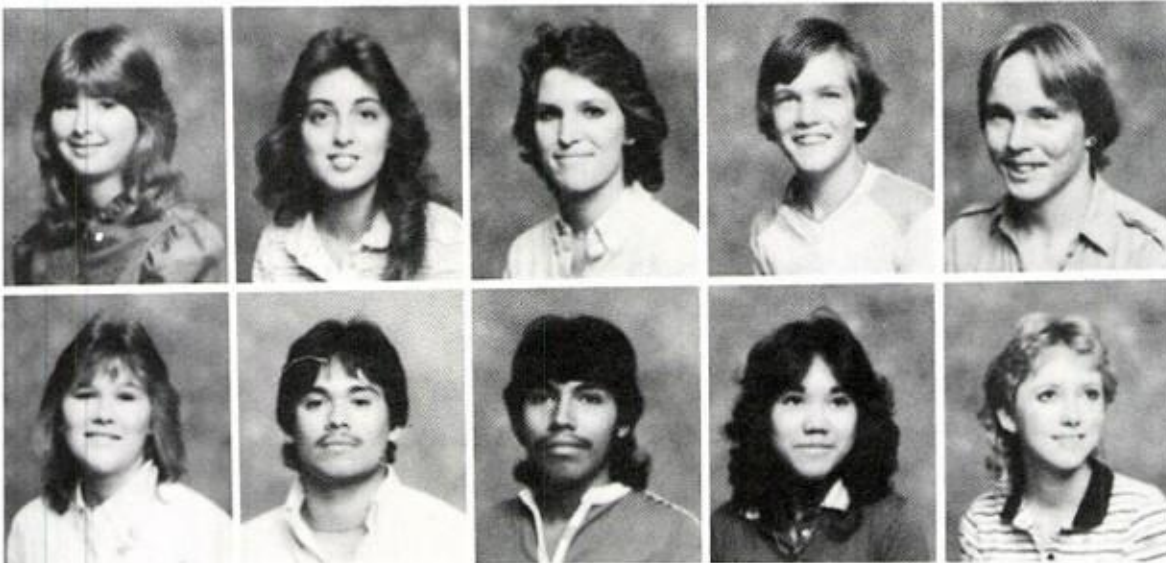

"I mostly babysit my nephews, and my mother's close friends' children," said David Pustka, junior.

"I really enjoy it. I don't miss my soap operas if I babysit," said John Joe Flores, junior.

But most girls don't mind the boys babysitting.

"Babysitting can be boring," said Mary Montemayor, junior. "I would rather work outside."

in Preference to Babysitting

The roles are changing between girls and boys and men and women. People are finding out they both are suited for all kinds of jobs — not just the traditional male and female ones.

But don't be surprised if someplace, sometime, somewhere, a male shows up and says to you "Do you need a babysitter?"

Juniors Get Jobs

The class of '85 is a Jack-of-all-Trades. But that's only to be expected considering the varied interests and capabilities of the class and the wide array of first jobs available.

Those first jobs are always exciting, especially since the class of '85 has been waiting ever since they got into high school to get a job.

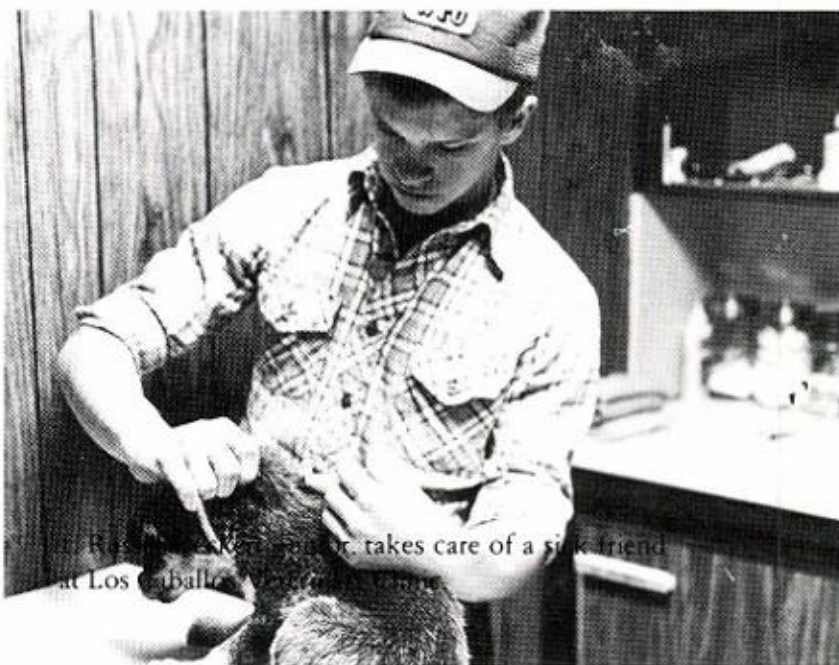

"Jobs take most of your free time away," said Sam Rufenacht, junior. "I'd rather work and have my own money than having my parents pay for everything, even though it does take up a lot of my time."

School work is another factor to be considered when getting a job. Kerri Maus, junior, said, "It's hard to work everyday and still keep up with my homework, but I have to."

When working in high school students often learn valuable experience that will help later on in life. "I'm not working so much for the money; it's mainly for the experience," said Russell Ueckert, junior, "The experience I'm gaining now will help me later when I enter vet school."

Tammy Barkis, junior, has still another expectation of her first job. "I'm saving the money I make for college, so I can someday have a career that I earned."

Some people love to work and others wish that the day never came when they had to work. But the class of '85 realizes that the first job is the first step to becoming totally independent.

Russell Ueckert takes care of a sick friend at Los Caballos.

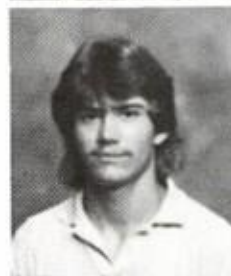

Kerri Maus, Junior, works hard to keep fresh produce on the shelves at Poor Boys Fruit Market.

Picked, the Senior Class of '86

Remember when you were a freshman and you were considered as part of the "lower class?" You were looking forward to becoming a sophomore so that you would no longer be part of the "lower class."

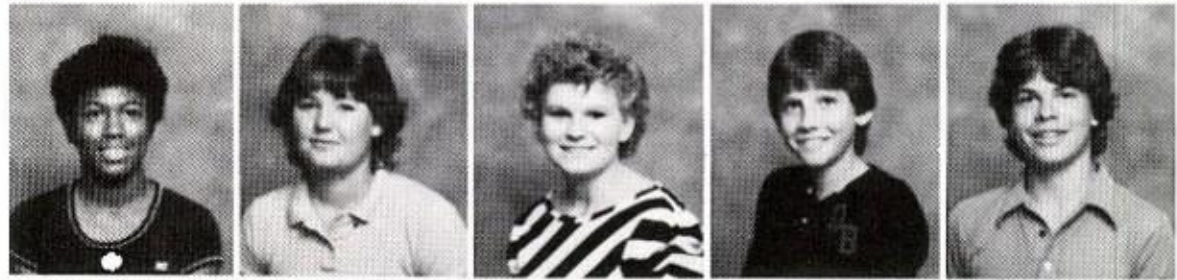

Now that you are a sophomore, you found out that being a sophomore is not everything you thought it would be. You are not considered as part of the "upper class" and you probably are not even considered "middle class."

Well, now, you are probably looking forward to becoming a Junior so that maybe, if we are all lucky, we will be considered as a part of the "upper class."

The Fun, but Scary Business

Dating -n. 1. the practice or an instance of having social engagements with a person or persons of the opposite sex.

This practice usually begins during the sophomore year of high school and is probably the most popular topic of conversation.

"The first date is the best!" said Paula Freeman, sophomore.

Naturally there are several kinds of dates: double dates, social dates, blind dates, have-to dates and just the plain ordinary boy-takes-best-girl-out dates.

"What's embarrassing is when the girl has to be in after I do," said Johnny Padrone, sophomore. The usual curfew is anywhere from 12:00 to 12:30, although some students thought they should have until at least 1 p.m.

of Dating Begins for Sophomores

Some dampers are placed on dating, though — too many people making it their business who you go out with, where, when and why. Another is what goes on after "I" have to go home?

Some guys worry about the high expenses of taking a girl out. They are, of course, talking about prices such as — $4 a person to get into the movies and $6 a person to eat a "decent" meal. Where does the money come from?

"Other than that I think it's great," said Tammy Crawford, "I'm glad I don't have to worry about the expenses."

Don't get them wrong — they all love dating! "mm ... great!" said Naomi Kirby.

But confusion also takes its part. "I was looking forward to it and in a way I was scared," said Kim Hood.

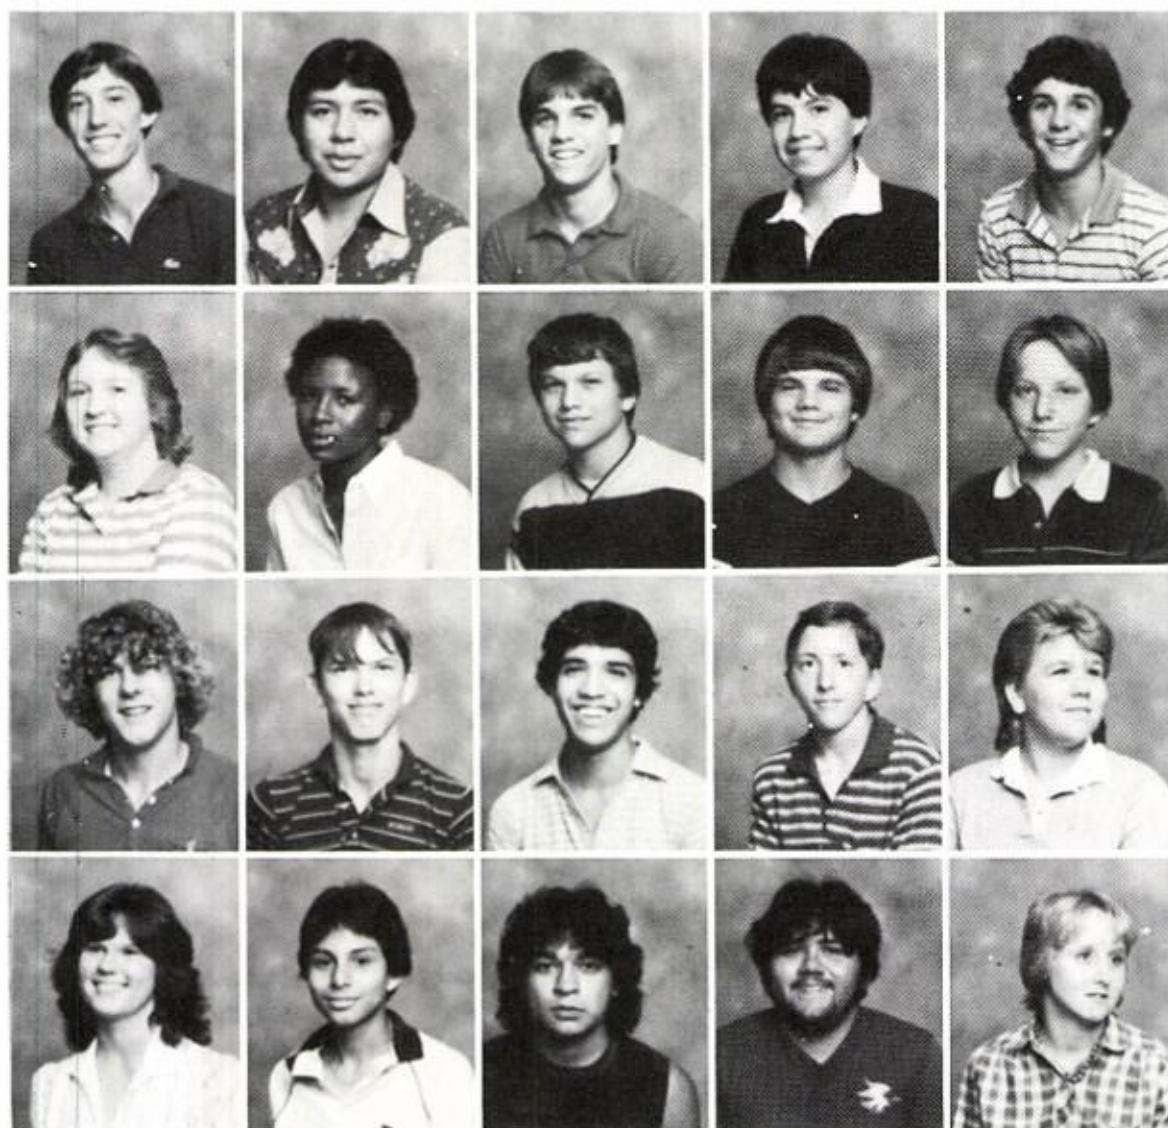

Now with responses like that you really wonder if dating is just a whim or if it will continue as the years continue.

Freshmen Put on War Paint

The class of '87 didn't come to school shy, afraid to get involved, and just generally taking a back seat to the upperclassmen.

Instead, they arrived on campus with a zest unparalleled in recent years. This spirit carried over in everything they did from playing football, to building the spirit chain to yelling at pep rallies.

Every Friday at the pep rally, the spirited freshmen could be counted on to back the Chiefs by yelling the loudest, often times winning the coveted spirit stick.

In fact, during the first six pep rallies, the freshmen class won the spirit stick everytime — a total of seven wins in all.

"Our 7-2 (freshman football) record boosted our spirit, said Jeff Sanders, freshman.

Another attention-getter they used was war paint — an idea of the freshmen coach, Tad Emert.

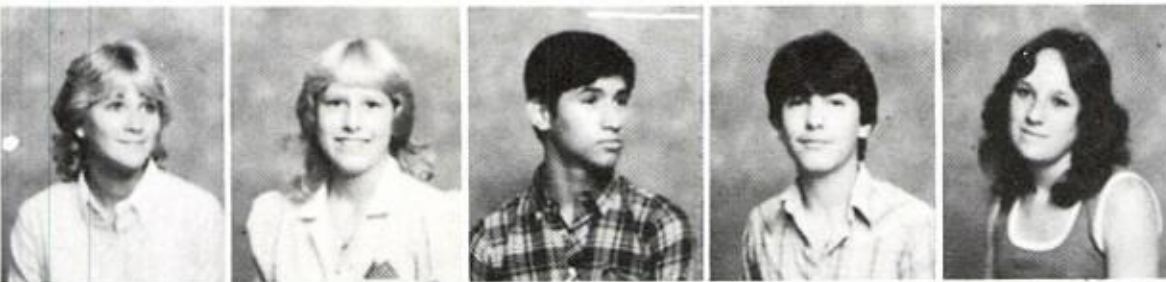

"When we painted our faces, two or three people brought the paint and we all met in the bathroom," said Randy Young, freshman. "We planned it the week before and reminded them the day before."

According to Cory Randolph, freshman, "we figured that if we painted our faces it would help boost morale, and get everybody going."

But intra-school rivalry between classes wasn't the only reason for all the excitement.

"We felt that to be accepted we had to show more spirit and let everyone know that we had arrived," said Kendra Cook, freshman.

And arrived they did — the largest, the loudest, and as some would even say: "We're the best of the other eleven, the senior class of '87."

Writing Notes Relieves Boredom

BUT WHAT HAPPENS TO THEM CAN BE EMBARRASSING

Boredom, lack of time between classes and just for the fun of it are some of the reasons people cite for writing notes.

What happens to the notes that are picked up varies from teacher to teacher.

"If it happens often, I grade the notes," said Mrs. Dee Warren, English teacher. "No one has ever made a passing grade on a note. Then I send it home to be signed by their parents."

Teachers also file the notes, read them aloud, or just throw them away. An unusual way for a teacher to punish people who write notes is to post the note.

"It teaches them to be more careful with their notes and not just throw them around," said Mr. Ken Whitley, English teacher.

The average notes written a day are about five and the average written a week is about fifteen.

"When I write notes, I mostly write about guys and who's going out with who this weekend and stuff like that," said Tami McPeters, freshman.

How does the person feel when a note gets taken up? "I get real embarrassed when a note gets taken up," said Misty Reynold, junior. One time I was reading a note from a guy and the teacher took it up and read it aloud, talk about embarrassed.

Most of the kids who write notes started between the fourth and sixth grades, and are still writing them.

The teachers think the notes are trash.

"I never read the notes, it's usually just trash," said Mrs. Mary Ellen Emery, Social Studies teacher.

However, the kids point of view is different.

"It's the only way I can communicate with my friends," said Traci Highsmith, freshman.

It's interesting to people how many notes they have collected over the years.

"I have over 3,000 notes that I've saved up," exclaimed Brenda Tatum, freshman. She has been saving them since the fourth grade and continues to this day.

These old notes may be read and re-read, at least for a while — until the day finally comes when they are thrown away along with the old ticket stubs, yellowed newspaper clippings and withered mums.

The faculty members, our superiors, never let us forget who was in control. We were constantly aware of their presence, monitoring our behavior.

A sight that struck terror into the hearts of those skipping class was the figure of a certain English teacher patrolling the halls, asking to see a hall pass.

The faculty even had a certain amount of control over our personal lives, forbidding sucky-face and pressy-body in the hallways (In the janitors' closet, maybe)?

Although the teachers practiced their EXECUTIVE POWERS, they were understanding (most of the time) and often gave us a second chance. They weren't just our teachers, they were our friends.

Education Issues Debated Across U.S.

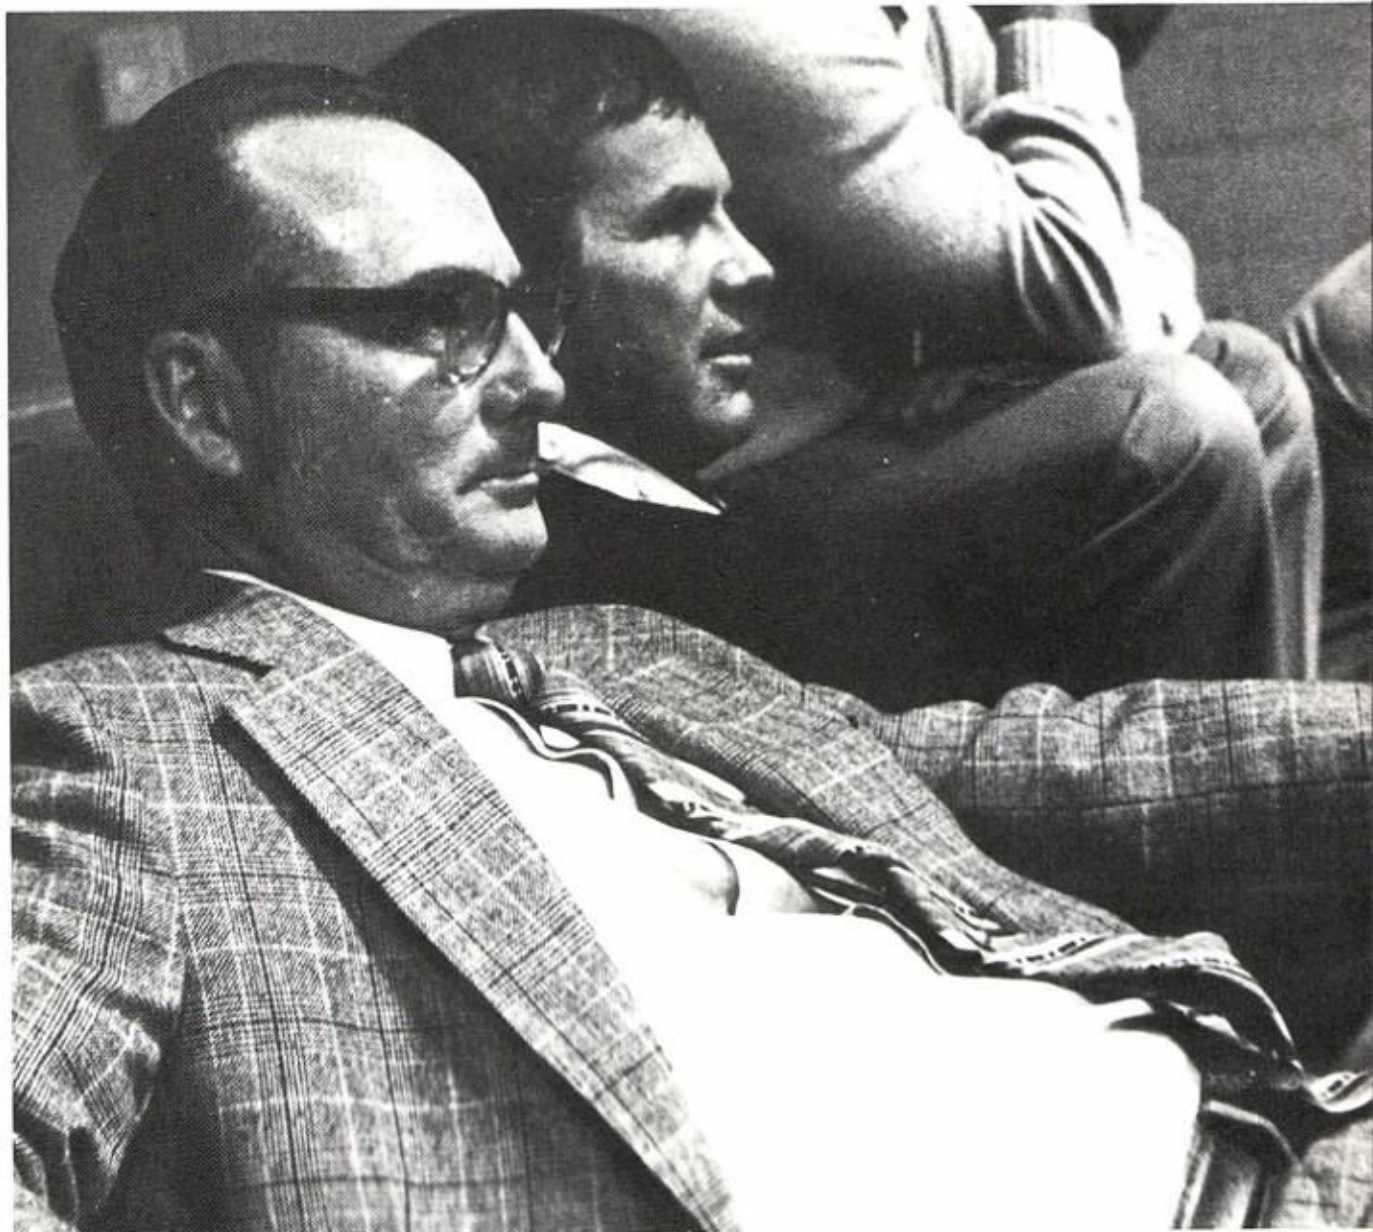

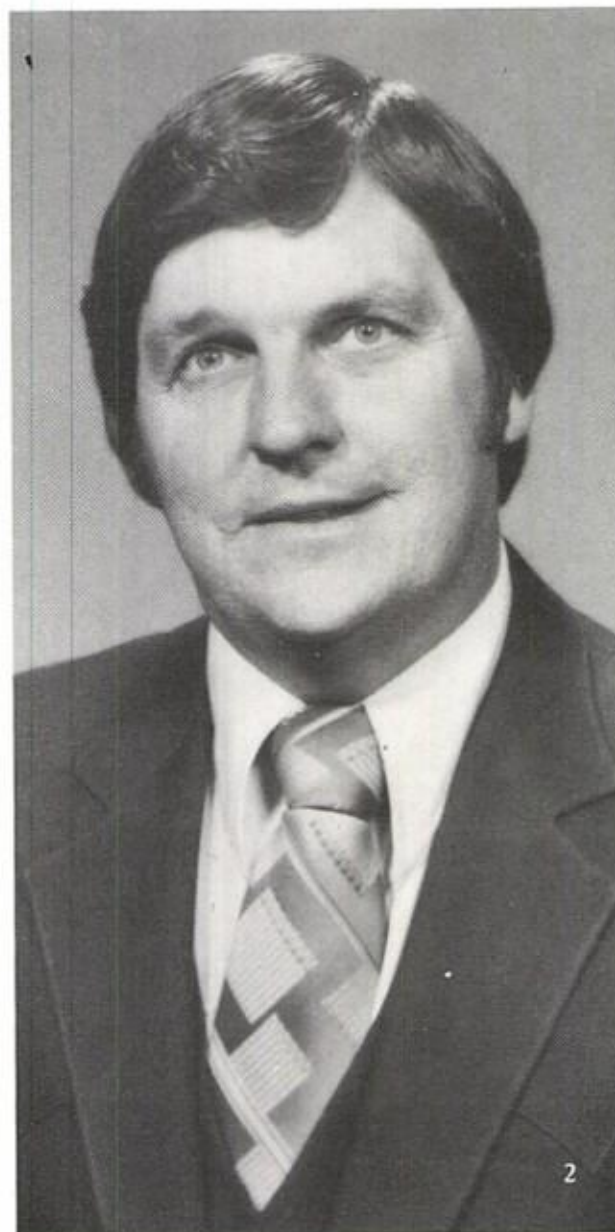

Education was a hot topic of debate this past year, both in the media as well as in school board meetings and special education commission reports that were issued at the state and national level.

With Governor Mark White's appointment of the H. Ross Perot Select Committee on education, practically everything that had to do with schools from the football field to the classroom was a topic of debate.

District-wide the school board voted in November to call for a bond election for the construction of a new elementary school as well as renovating and constructing classrooms on existing campuses. The building program is needed to accommodate a projected enrollment growth of 2,400 students by 1987.

At the campus level, the administration moved to encourage academic excellence by initiating the "Merit Roll" for students with grade point averages between 80-89.

"It helps to recognize the students that are trying their best" said Mr. Herschel Duckworth, principal.

Weeaks Named

"I think somebody must not have voted," said Mr. Ted Weeaks.

The vocational agriculture teacher was trying to find a reason for being named Teacher of the Year. As if his being chosen was a mistake. "I've been voting for Mr. Weeaks for three years," said junior, Russell Ueckert.

But by the gleam in his eye and the grin on his face, one could tell that deep down inside, Mr. Weeaks knew that there was no mistake about it — he was the student body's favorite. "I'm proud that the kids think that much of me," he said. "It makes you feel good."

Kids' Favorite

The forty-four year-old father figure has been teaching "ag" at Lake View for twenty-two years; he's never taught at any other school. "It's home," he said. "I wouldn't want to go anywhere else." And obviously, his students wouldn't want him to either. "He's a great teacher," said senior Chris Weeaks. "And a great father," he added.

As for thinking that "somebody must have not voted," it's just the opposite. They did vote; they voted for Mr. Weeaks.

Teachers Are People, Too

"When the students are away, the teachers will play." With all kidding aside, these teachers are loved by all. Even they have their moods once in a while. With Lake Views' masquerade day and the everyday repetition of school work, homecoming gave them a perfect opportunity to break away from their daily routine.

Where Have
All the Teachers
Gone?

Students come and students go. So do teachers, as the senior class of '84 can vouch for. In fact, a total of 35 faculty members who were here in the fall of 1980 are no longer at Lake View.

Why did they leave? Different teachers had different reasons.

Some advanced their careers. Opportunity knocked for coaches Charlie Brown, Tom Fambrough, Jerry Horn, and Paul Stein. By moving to a smaller school they got bigger coaching positions.

Some became self-employed. Mr. Joe Culp, printing teacher, traded in his printing press for a tractor. Secretary Gay Turner opened her own upholstery business.

Some retired. After many years of service, art teacher

Imogene Buck, receptionist, Maxine Dendle, and high-kicking W. W. Ogle, math teacher, said good-bye to the life of teaching.

The resignation of English teachers over the past few years has been found to follow a strange pattern. It seems that after the class of '84 completes a school year, their English teacher leaves. Such was the case in 1981 with freshman English teacher, Norma Cortez, in 1982 with sophomore English teacher Rose Mary Fetter, and in 1983 with junior English teacher Be-Bee Cyphers.

Is this just a coincidence? You decide. But as for 1984 and Ann Barker, senior English teacher . . .?

Students Begin

BYTE, RAM, SECTOM: These terms may not be found in the Webster's dictionary yet, but they are commonly used among today's computer students.

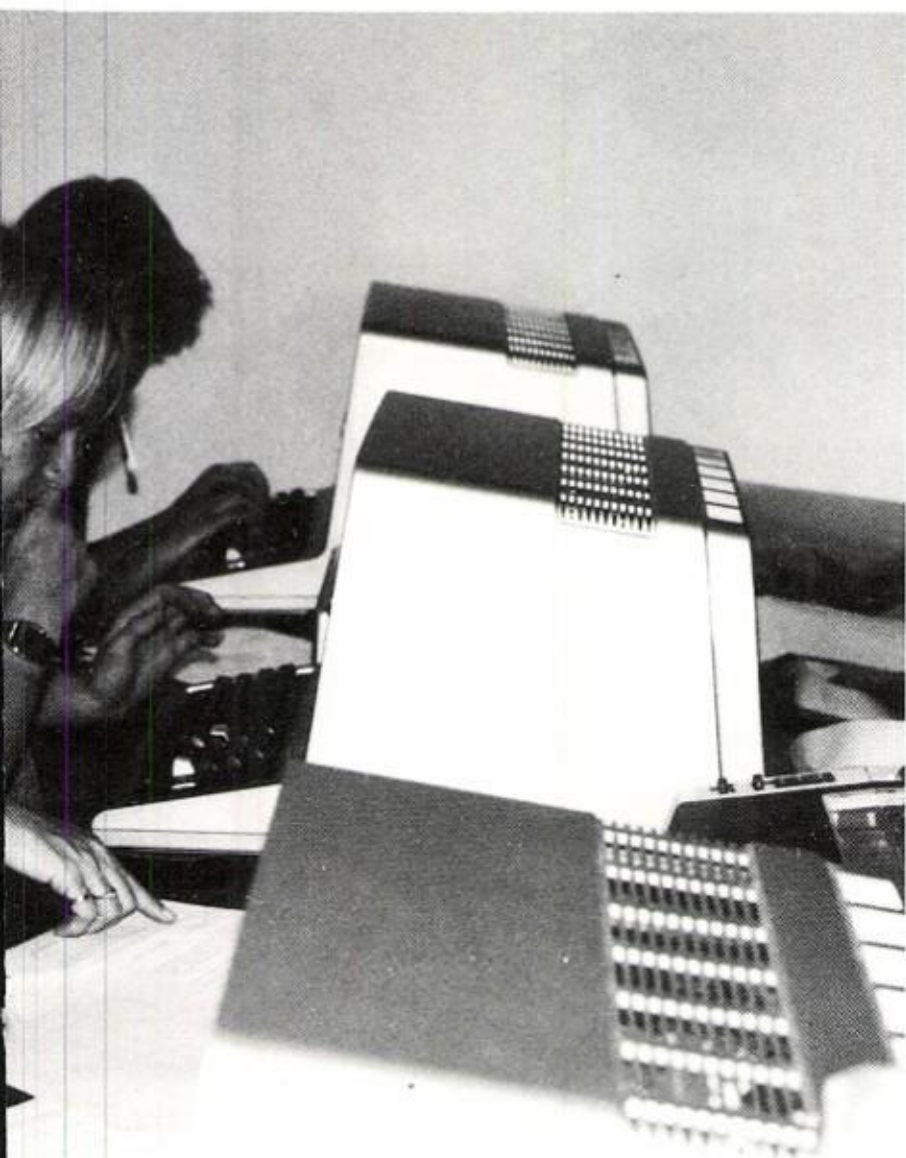

These students are found in the new one-semester computer programming class, taught by Miss Barbara Wade.

"The objective is to acquaint the student with the history, development, and use of the computer and to make them aware of the limitations," said Miss Wade.

Simple programming in BASIC language as well as some other computer languages are taught. Students also need these to learn to solve mathematical problems.

The people who enrolled in the one semester class were not required to have any specific math background. This year is basically a trial period after which pre-requisites will be set according to what type of person is best capable in the class.

"The class is more for computer literacy and interest than for programming," added Miss Wade.

With BASICS

Some students may progress faster than others, so Miss Wade divided the class into groups according to the rate at which they could work.

"When Miss Wade split us into groups according to our advancement, it worked out pretty well," said Joseph Thane, senior. "Everyone could advance at his own pace and could then work, even if no one else wanted too."

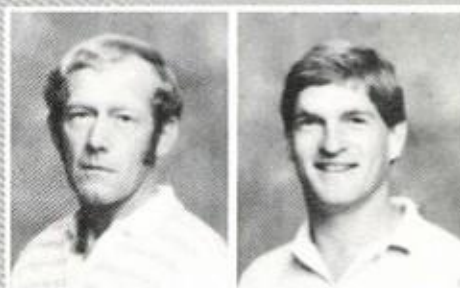

"The class is very informative if you are willing to work hard and pay attention in class," said Lisa Young, senior.

Sylva Frock, junior, feels that "the class is fun most of the time. It's hard work but it pays off. We should have more computers so we can have more computer time."

Miss Wade added, "This year's one-semester course is an introductory course, but we hope to be able to offer additional courses if student interest is great enough."

When one thinks of school one primarily thinks of the teachers and the courses. However, it takes more than teachers to successfully run a school. It takes a strong support staff.

Among these are counselors who help students make wise career and educational choices and a librarian to choose books, magazines, and encyclopedias for students to use as resource materials.

In addition, the overall coordination of the school athletic department must be dealt with by the athletic director.

Numerous schedules and calendars must be drawn up in conjunction with other on-going activities.

Behind all the reams of paper work involved in running the school were the secretaries and aides who did everything from running the audio-visual department to running the school computer to keeping the attendance records.

So, while school is mostly teachers and classes, it's also guidance, record keeping, and scheduling.

Hamburgers, Enchiladas Students' Favorites

Lunchroom food: where does it come from and how do we get it?

Hamburgers, enchiladas, chili, and corndogs. These are some of the better selling foods at Lake View. These foods sell better because this is the food kids eat most anyway.

"Lunchroom food starts to be prepared about 7:15 each morning," said Mrs. Mary Holster, cafeteria manager.

The daily menu must have at least one item from each of the four food groups in every meal.

Food is prepared for an average of 350 to 380 people each day. On days when food will sell better, food is prepared for 400 to 420 people.

The foods that sell the best are hamburgers and enchiladas. "It takes at least three hours to prepare the food," said Mrs. Holster.

After the menu is set for the day, the lunchroom workers look back on old records to see how well these foods sell. The food that sells the worst is liver.

"This food does not go over well with kids," said Mrs. Holster.

Unexpected was the main element the Chiefs football team had in its favor this year.

Not only was the outcome unexpected, so was the talent and enthusiasm of the young, inexperienced team.

But the team was not the only ones with fresh new faces, as members of the coaching staff were also new.

The first game of the season set the stage for an explosive, unpredictable season. In a very lopsided opening game, the Chiefs surprised the Del Rio Rams 40-21, to take their first step on the ladder of success.

The Stamford Bulldogs were next on the Chiefs' execution list, as the Chiefs blew them out of the stadium in a 47-6 victory.

Having scored 87 total points in the first two games, the Chiefs were prepared to slaughter the Snyder Tigers in the third season game. The Chiefs again came out on top with a score of 21-8.

First District Win Gives Tribe Boost

The extra week of practice, due to an open date, seemed to pay off in the Chiefs first district win of the season over the Lamesa Tornadoes.

Quarterback Scotty Frazier, running back John Rodgers, and receiver Carey Sartain, led the Chiefs to a 25-0 shut-out over the Tornadoes.

The Chiefs were on a roll, but the rolling soon ended as the Chiefs ran into Monahans' brick wall. The Loboes' defense practically shut-down the Chieftain offense as their team kept control of the ball. The outcome was a Monahans victory over the Chiefs 21-14.

The Chiefs were still in the district race, however, as they regained their confidence for yet another shut-out against the Pecos Eagles, 19-0. The Chiefs now had five marks in their win column.

The following week, the Chiefs picked up a 30-6 victory over the Panthers, who had been chosen at the beginning of the year to place first in 2-4A by the pre-season coaches' poll; thus, another unexpected event.

H'coming Pits LV Against Stockton

FOOTBALL

At this point in the season, the Chiefs, with the top-ranked offense in the district, traveled to Pecos for a clash against the Pecos Eagles, who had the top-ranked defense.

Pecos' defense was not a major factor in the game however, as the Chiefs recovered Pecos' fumbles and interceptions to rack up a 19-0 shutout victory.

The Chiefs seemed to build upon themselves more and more as the homecoming football game against the Fort Stockton Panthers neared.

Coach Jim Slaughter said, "They always put forth one of their best efforts during homecoming week." The proof, a Chieftain victory, 30-6.

The next pit stop on the Chiefs' race to the top was their arch rival, Andrews Mustangs. The Chiefs air and ground attack led them to yet another victory as they slaughtered the Mustangs, 28-14. The Chiefs' record now stood at 7-1.

Chiefs Climb to Top 10 in AP Football Poll

Copy by

Probably the most exciting game of the season was the matchup between the Chiefs and the Sweetwater Mustangs.

With just under three minutes left in the game, the Chiefs were trailing 30-34. The Mustangs attempt for a first down had failed, and they were forced to punt.

As the ball was centered, Chieftain, Morty Redman, broke in from the left side to block the punt. John Rodgers, senior, then took over to run the ball to Sweetwater's 12-yard-line.

Coach Slaughter then called a pass play to Dean Rosser, junior, but told Carey Sartain, senior, to be open "just in case."

Sweetwater's defense was good, but not good enough as Sartain caught the game-winning touchdown pass to bring the Chiefs to a 36-34 victory.

With this victory, the Chiefs became one of the top 10 teams in Class 4A according to the Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

The Chiefs could smell bi-district, but they had yet to play the winless Snyder tigers. This game proved to be an easy notch in the Chiefs' belt as they routed the Tigers 35-14.

LV Looks for Bi-District Win

Obsessed with winning, the 9-1 Chiefs rolled into Lubbock for the bi-district clash against Estacado with revenge in their eyes.

The revenge they wanted was for last year's bi-district loss to another Lubbock team, Dunbar, who had soundly defeated the Chiefs 20-0.

An urge for revenge would not be enough for the Chiefs, though. Estacado's outstanding offense and defense trampled the Chiefs in a 34-0 shut-out.

"The way it looked, we didn't have any business being there," said Coach Slaughter.

The Chiefs' dreams dwindled as the Matadors scored on their first possession.

From there, things just got worse. The Matadors made a total of five touchdowns during the game.

John Rodgers was held to only 72 rushing yards and Scotty Frasier threw for only 56 yards.

At half-time the Chiefs were trailing, 13-0. Each player was hoping for some kind of come-from-behind win, which they had seen much of earlier in the season.

Some things are not to be, though as the Chiefs played the second half of the game very similarly to the first half.

All hopes for a state title had diminished as the final seconds ticked off of the scoreboard.

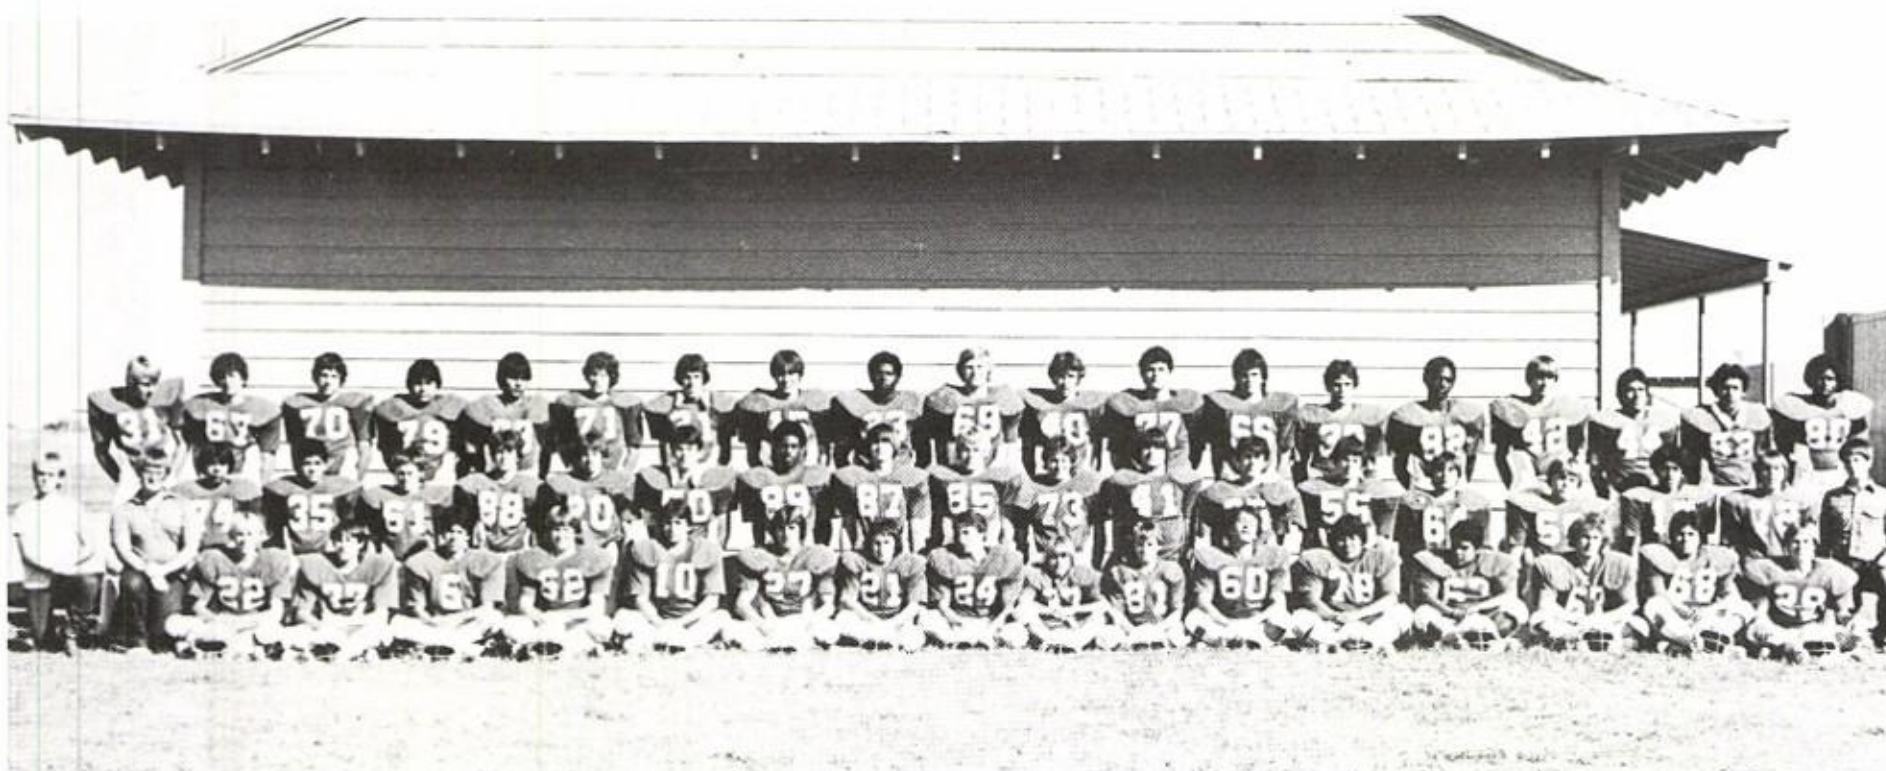

Just memories remained.

Maidens Take Third in District

Starting off the '83 year with mainly a seniors varsity volleyball team promised to be an exciting and challenging year. The team's physical playing ability rated very highly among the competition. "District 2-4A is the strongest in Texas, with several teams capable of becoming district champs," Coach Dale McClellan said early in the season.

The team's main weakness was lack of consistency throughout the game. One thing that provided good game experience was the scheduled pre-district game against strong competition.

"Even though the third place finish wasn't as high as the Maidens had hoped for, the year still had to be considered a successful campaign," said Coach McClellan.

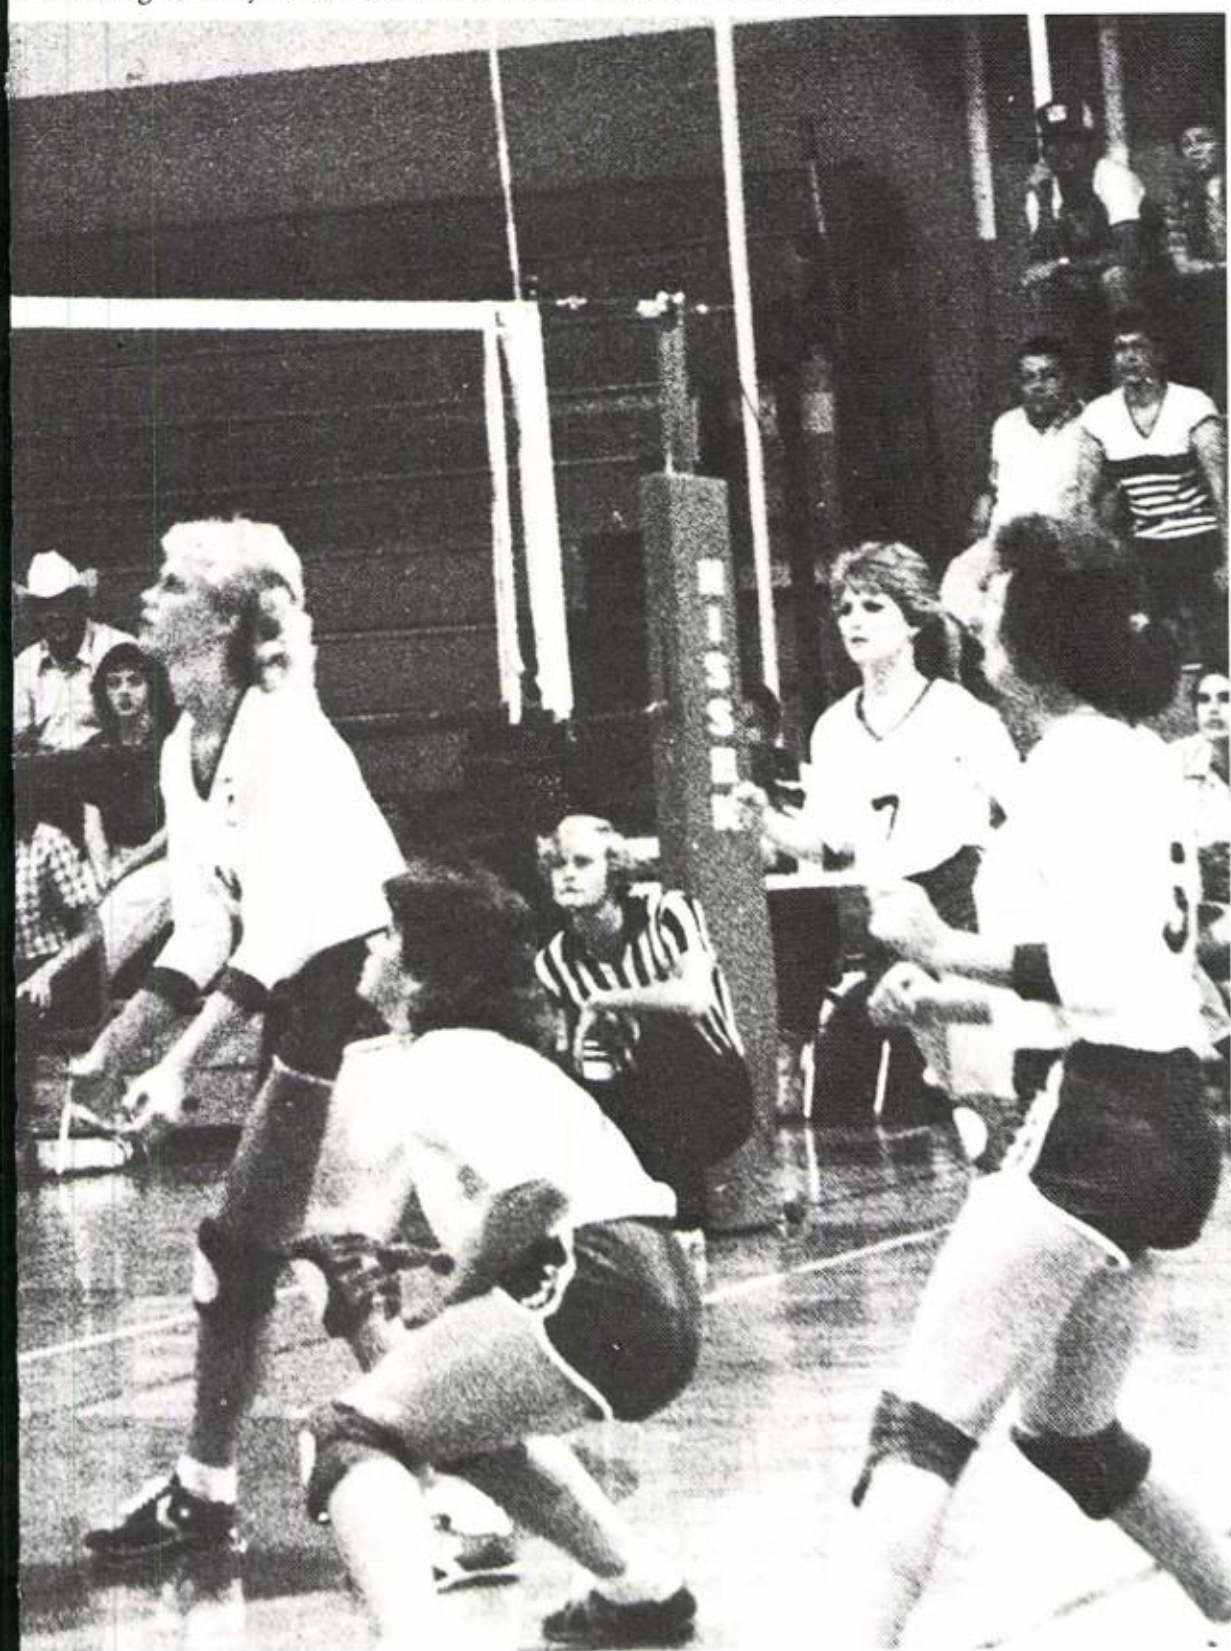

More games were won than lost, but the quality of play by the team was comparable to any of its opponents. Their toughest foe this year was Pecos because of their outstanding defense. "They're not an overpowering team, but it's hard to get a ball in on them," said Coach McClellan.

Two players received special honors for their effort. Lori Hoelscher was named by unanimous choice for all-district team and Sheila Gordon was named to the second team all-district.

"Progress was seen in each game the J.V. volleyball girls played and strong competitiveness was shown by each player," said Coach Merrijane Ellis.

"We predicted that we would provide a lot of playing time, as much as possible for each player," she said.

The girls really came together to build a strong junior varsity team and pulled it off.

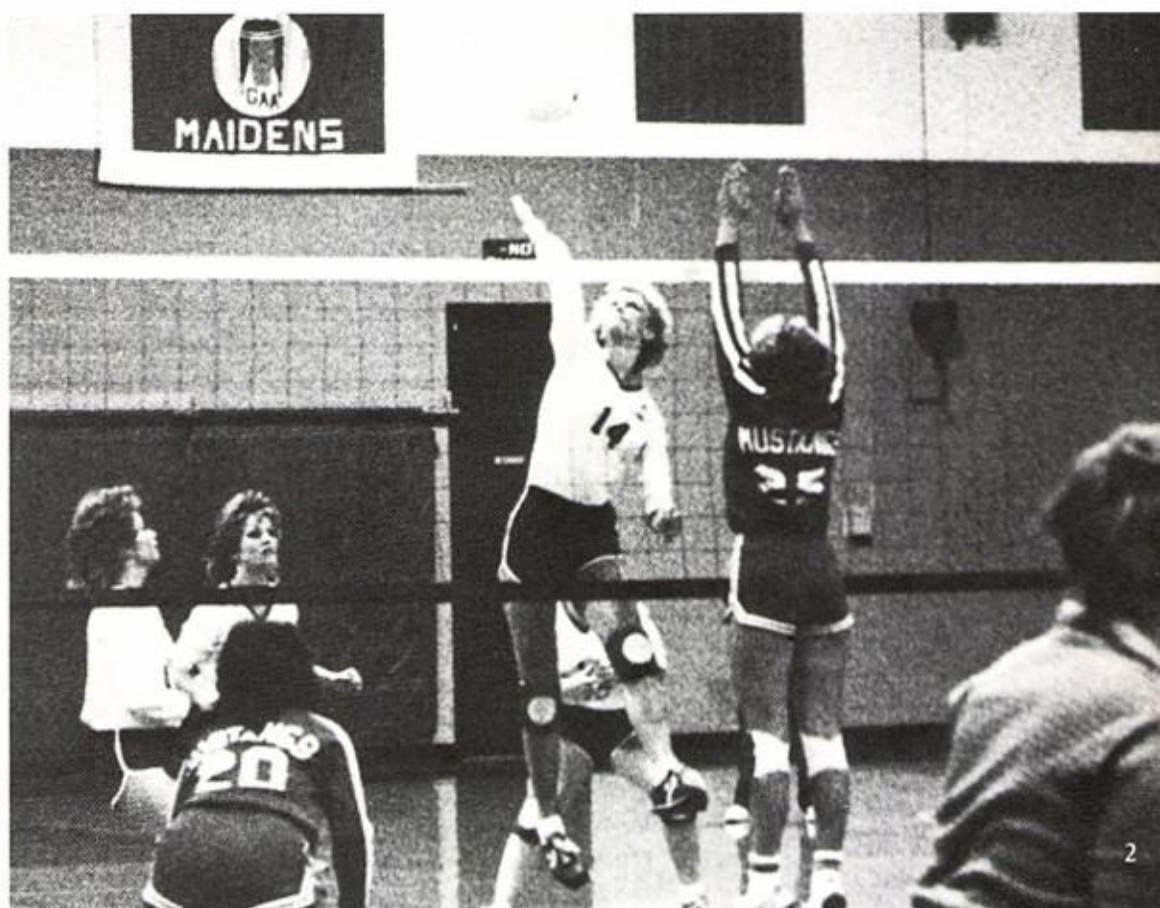

"As much experience that was gained this year, they're really going to make a strong varsity team next year," said Coach Ellis.

The frosh Maidens opened their season with a victory over Glenn.

"These girls needed the winning to build up their confidence," said Coach Jo Ann Walters.

There were 14 players starting the first few games. "Then everyone started getting better and got a suit," said Coach Walters. The strength of this team is "the willingness of the girls to put out a lot of team effort and hustle," she said.

Teamwork is another factor the young Maidens had going for them. "One of the important factors in the game of volleyball is being able to work together and play as a team — these girls did," she said.

Varsity Has 2-10 Record

They say that hard work pays off in the long run, but that couldn't be proved by this year's Chieftain Basketball team.

Although the Chiefs worked endlessly to improve the inexperienced team, the Varsity ended their season with a disappointing 2-10 district record.

Clouds Hover Over Chiefs' B'ball Season

The Chiefs season could have definitely been better. Unlike the tortoise and the hare, slow and steady did not win the race. As the Chiefs took their time in working out their problems, other teams were surpassing them at an astounding rate.

Although they were at the bottom of the pile, the Chiefs did have company.

In a game to determine the team in last place at the midway mark of the season, the Chiefs faced the Ft. Stockton Panthers and came out on top with a score of 52-39 to leave the Panthers as "celler dwellers."

This victory was the summit of the Chieftain '83-'84 basketball season.

But, such as mountain climbers, after the Chiefs reached their summit, they took their journey down hill without another win until their final game.

LV Closes Out Season With Monahans Win

Competition is one of the most important aspects of athletics, and no one can say that the Chiefs didn't compete. The Chiefs worked up to three hours per day on improving their game plan.

While this work did not show up on the scoreboard, the Chiefs definitely earned the self-respect that they deserved, and received.

One closing bright spot did occur at the Chiefs' final game when they defeated the Monahans Lobos 72-59, turning some of the past frowns into smiles. They also finished the season knowing they were not in last place. It may have been a small consolation, but at least it was a consolation.

JV's Have Good Attitude

This year's Junior Varsity basketball team was aided by first year coach, Vin Smith. "I have learned quite a bit this year," said Coach Smith.

"The mental attitude of the JV has been outstanding. I couldn't ask for anything better," he added.

"I thought the season went well as far as improvements," said Coach Smith. "The team rose to the occasion considering how we did." Overall, the JV's record was 2-22.

The team was mainly made up of sophomores and all will be returning.

Shortages of athletes in the freshmen basketball program caused problems early in the season. The team finished with a 2-8 record.

"We didn't have very many kids out for basketball this season, so it was hard for us to complete four teams and be able to compete with the other junior highs," said Coach Alfred Martinez.

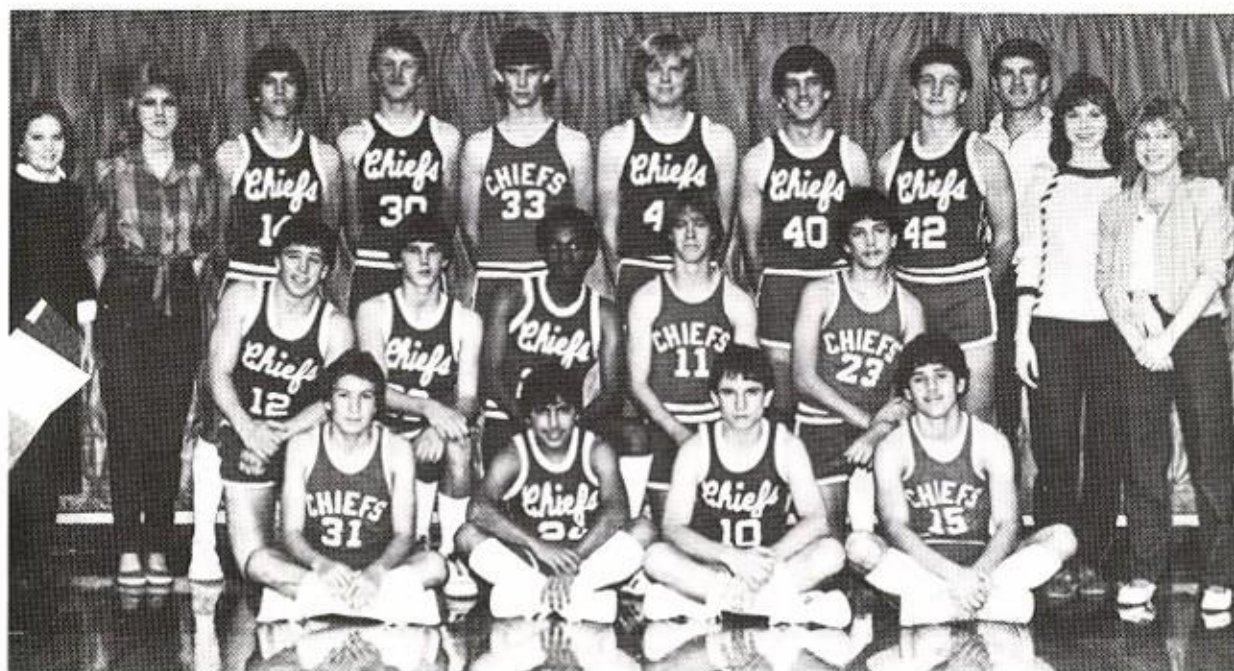

"The kids enjoyed themselves, and they had fun," he said. "The main objective is to enjoy themselves at the freshmen level."

Coach Martinez commended Randy Young for his effort and leadership with the team.

Maidens Ease by Cooper 42-33

Determination and high hopes played a big role in the start of the Lake View Maidens basketball season. They were determined to make this year better than the last.

The Maidens got off to a good start by defeating Abilene-Cooper 42-33 in the first game of the season. With seven lettermen returning on the team including one all-district pick, the Maidens were expected to come on strong. They fulfilled that expectation. Second and third season veterans on the squad were Trudy Baker, Bonnie Edwards, Sheila Gordon, Cynthia Hall, Lori Hoelscher, Patricia Masavage, and Robin Shipman.

The team claimed its second win against Del Rio 37-24, and geared up for a big defeat over Central 50-28. The Maidens played Central three times in pre-district play and won all three.

Coach Dale McClellan said, "The pre-district schedule was very challenging playing 5-A schools that have a reputation of strong basketball programs."

The Maidens met those challenges by taking first in the Lake View Invitational, playing Central for the championship. In both the Abilene Cat Claw Classic and the Central Tournament, the Maidens won consolation.

The Maidens finished out their pre-district play with a 9-2 record losing against Eula 80-64 and Hereford 44-41. Both were in tournament play.

Magical Maids Use Teamwork

The Maidens have a magical talent that shines through when they play a ball game. That magic, along with teamwork and determination, has enabled the team to win in close games.

Coach McClellan said, "A main contributing factor to the successful workouts and games has been the fact that each player has played extensively."

The Maidens started the first half of district play with a win over Ft. Stockton 57-43. They went on to play, and win, against Monahans and Sweetwater, 29-23 and 42-39, respectively.

"The girls apparently felt good about this year and tried to give it all they had," said McClellan.

The Maidens won their next four games and finished the first half of district play with a perfect 7-0 record.

— Maids Ranked Sixth in State

Coming out of the first half of district play with a 7-0 district record, the Maidens prepared for the second half.

They started off with a loss to Sweetwater 23-40, but jumped back the next game to win against Ft. Stockton 75-41. The Maidens crushed Snyder 57-39 and whizzed past Pecos 62-31.

These wins put the Maidens in the lead for district. They also gained the rank of sixth in the state but, that didn't affect their playing at all.

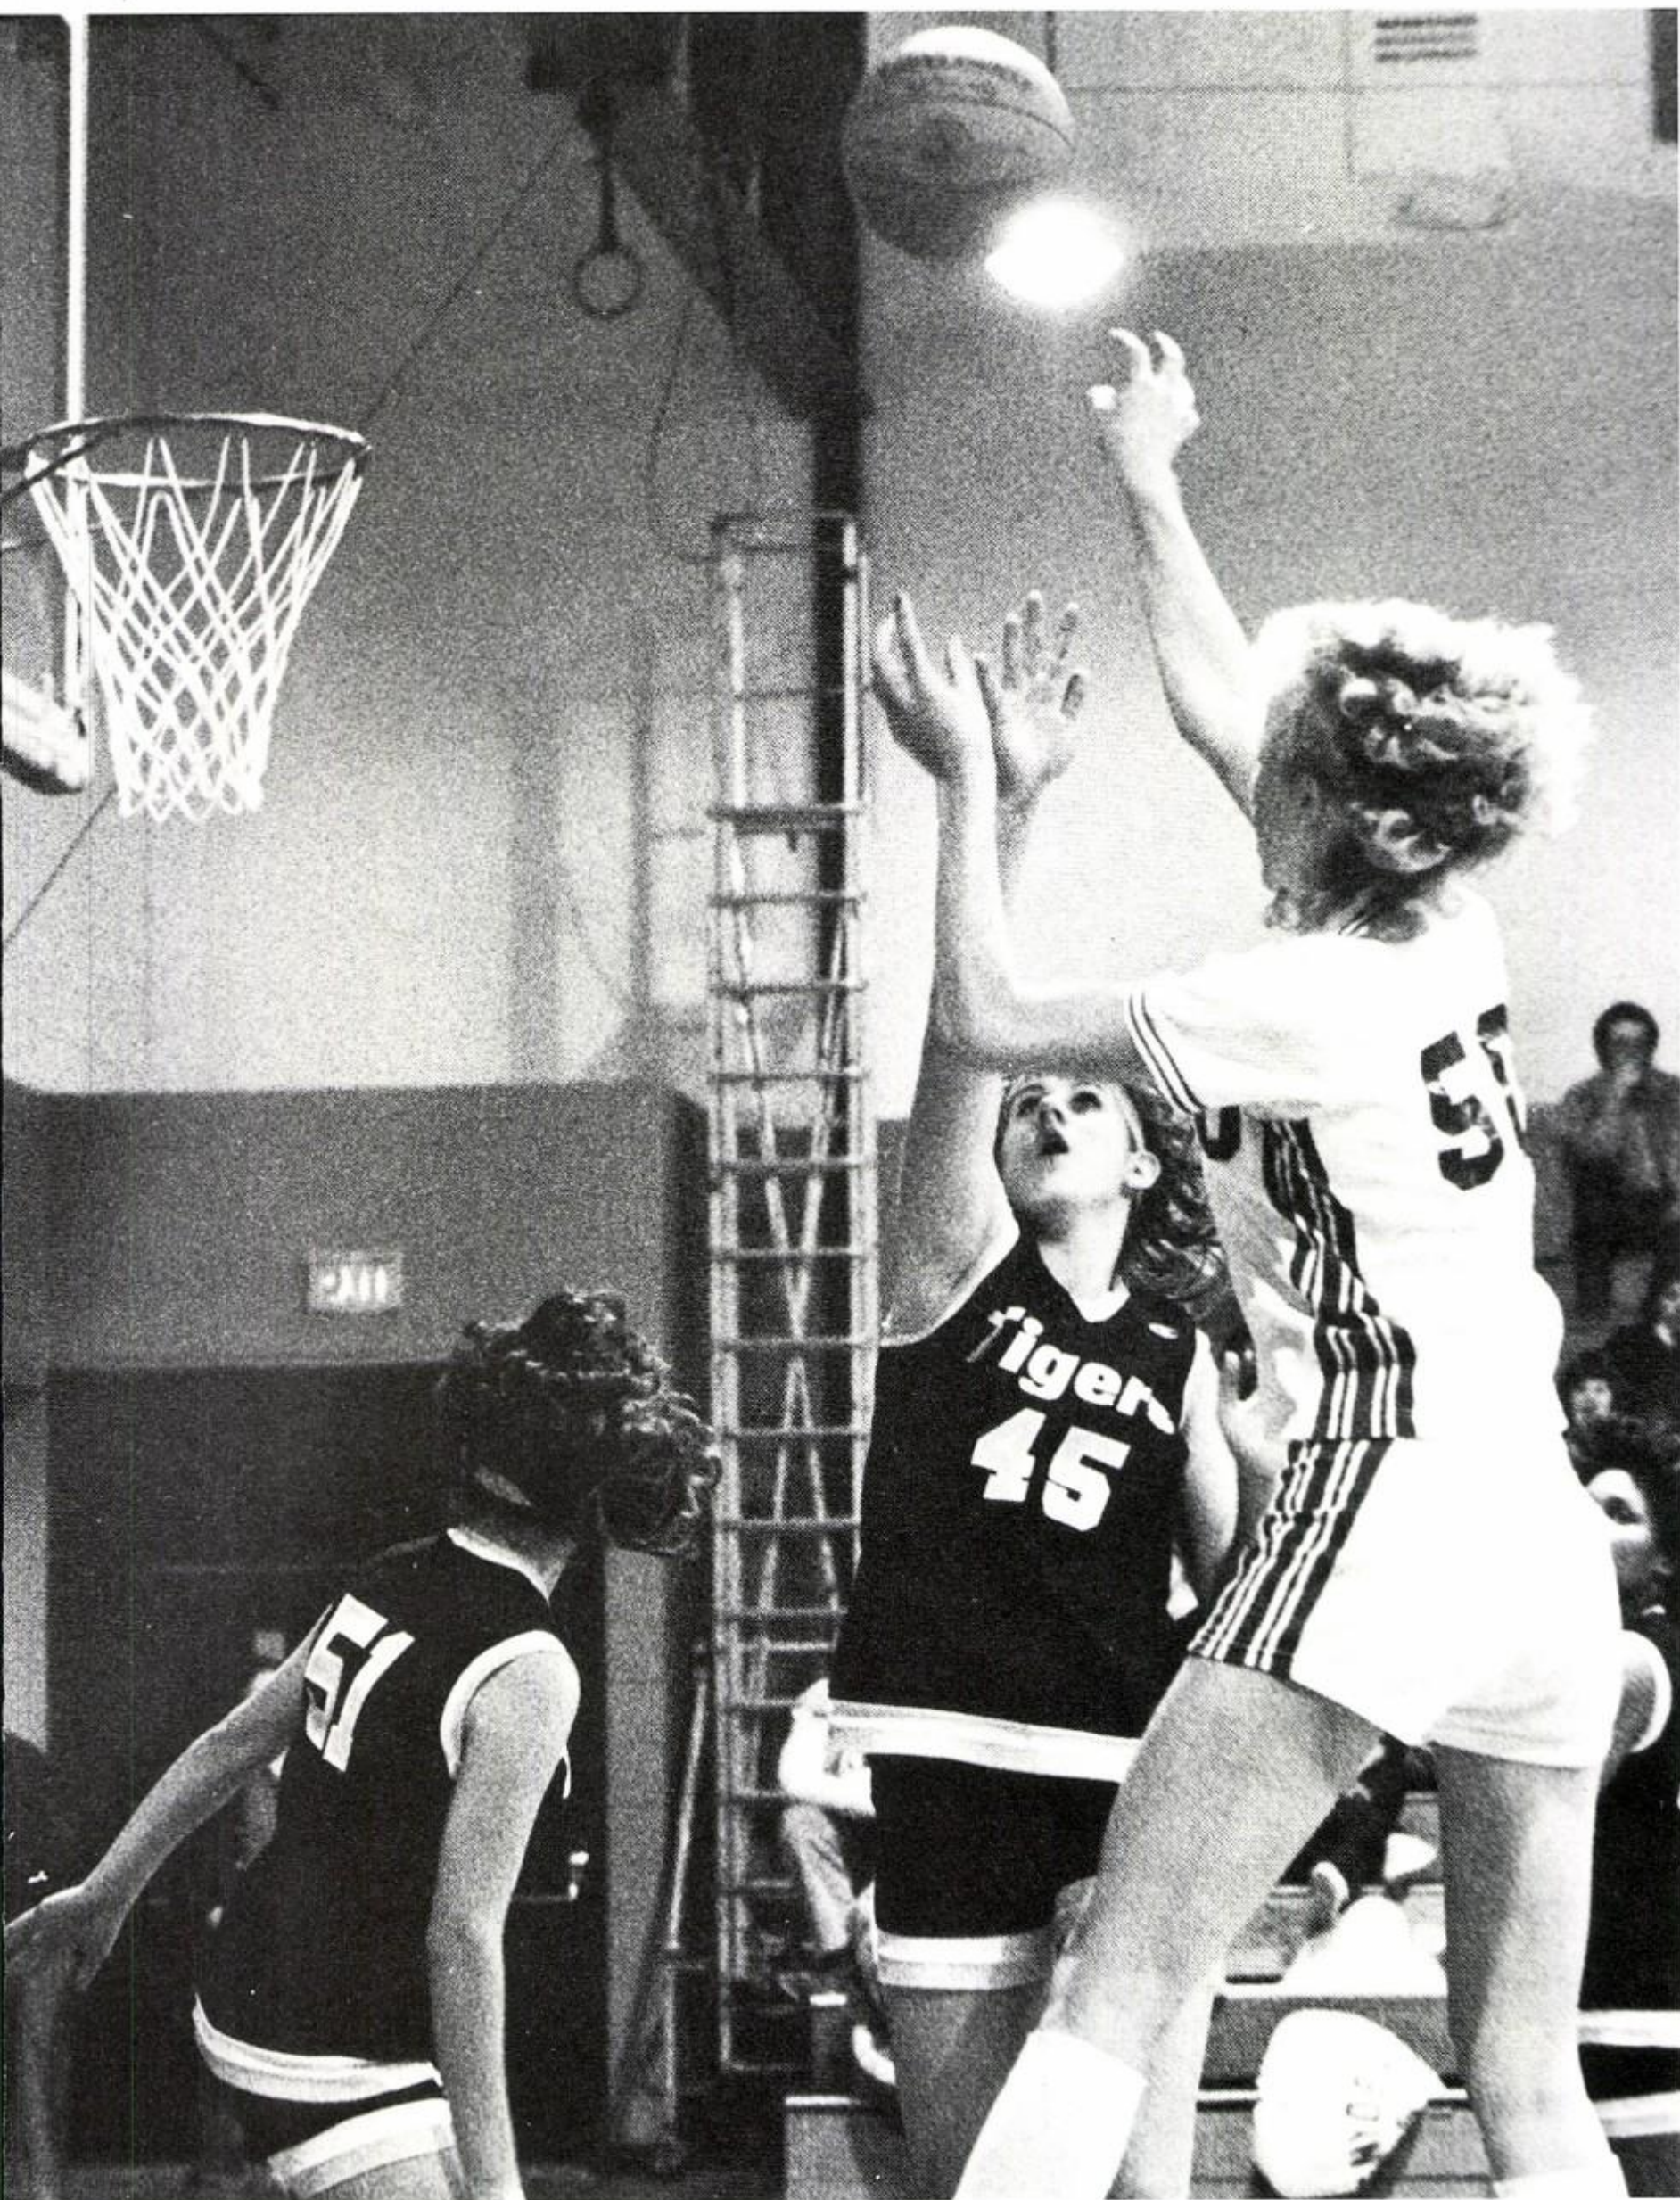

"If anything it proved to them (Maidens) that the other people in the state were beginning to realize the strength and depth of the team," said Coach Dale McClellan.

LV Ends Year 23-5

The Maidens accomplished many goals this year including being ranked sixth in the state. The magic of the team stayed with them as they walked over Lamesa 73-38.

The win brought their record to 12-1, just ahead of Andrews and Sweetwater. A loss against Andrews 48-72 put the Maidens in a three-way tie. They stuck together, but couldn't pull off their second game against Andrews. The dream of being district champions was dashed as they fell to the Mustangs 42-69.

Coach Dale McClellan said, "It would have to be termed a successful year. The whole team kept believing in themselves and we overcame a lot of obstacles together this year. .

"I had faith from the start that they would win a lot of ball games on hard work and desire. The surprise was that the other teams in the district were as strong as they were."

The Maidens did win on hard work, desire, and teamwork. They finished the 83-84 basketball season with a 23-5 season record and a 12-3 district record.

LV Tennis One of District's Strongest

"We're one of the stronger teams in our district," said Coach Felix Lopez of this year's tennis team. He is very proud of the enthusiasm the players have had this year.

"Sterling Abbott has been the best boy player. We've really got a strong boys team this season," said Coach Lopez.

The girls' team would have been a lot stronger if they had all the girls at once. At one point they had only two girls to play.

"Between volleyball and basketball our girls have to squeeze a good team together," said Coach Lopez.

The tennis team has shown a great deal of improvement over the years.

The boys' team defeated Central High School 7-5. This is the first time they have ever beaten the Central boys.

The girls are playing well also but they have needed Sheila Gordon, one of their top players.

"She's been in so many other events it's hard without her," said Coach Lopez.

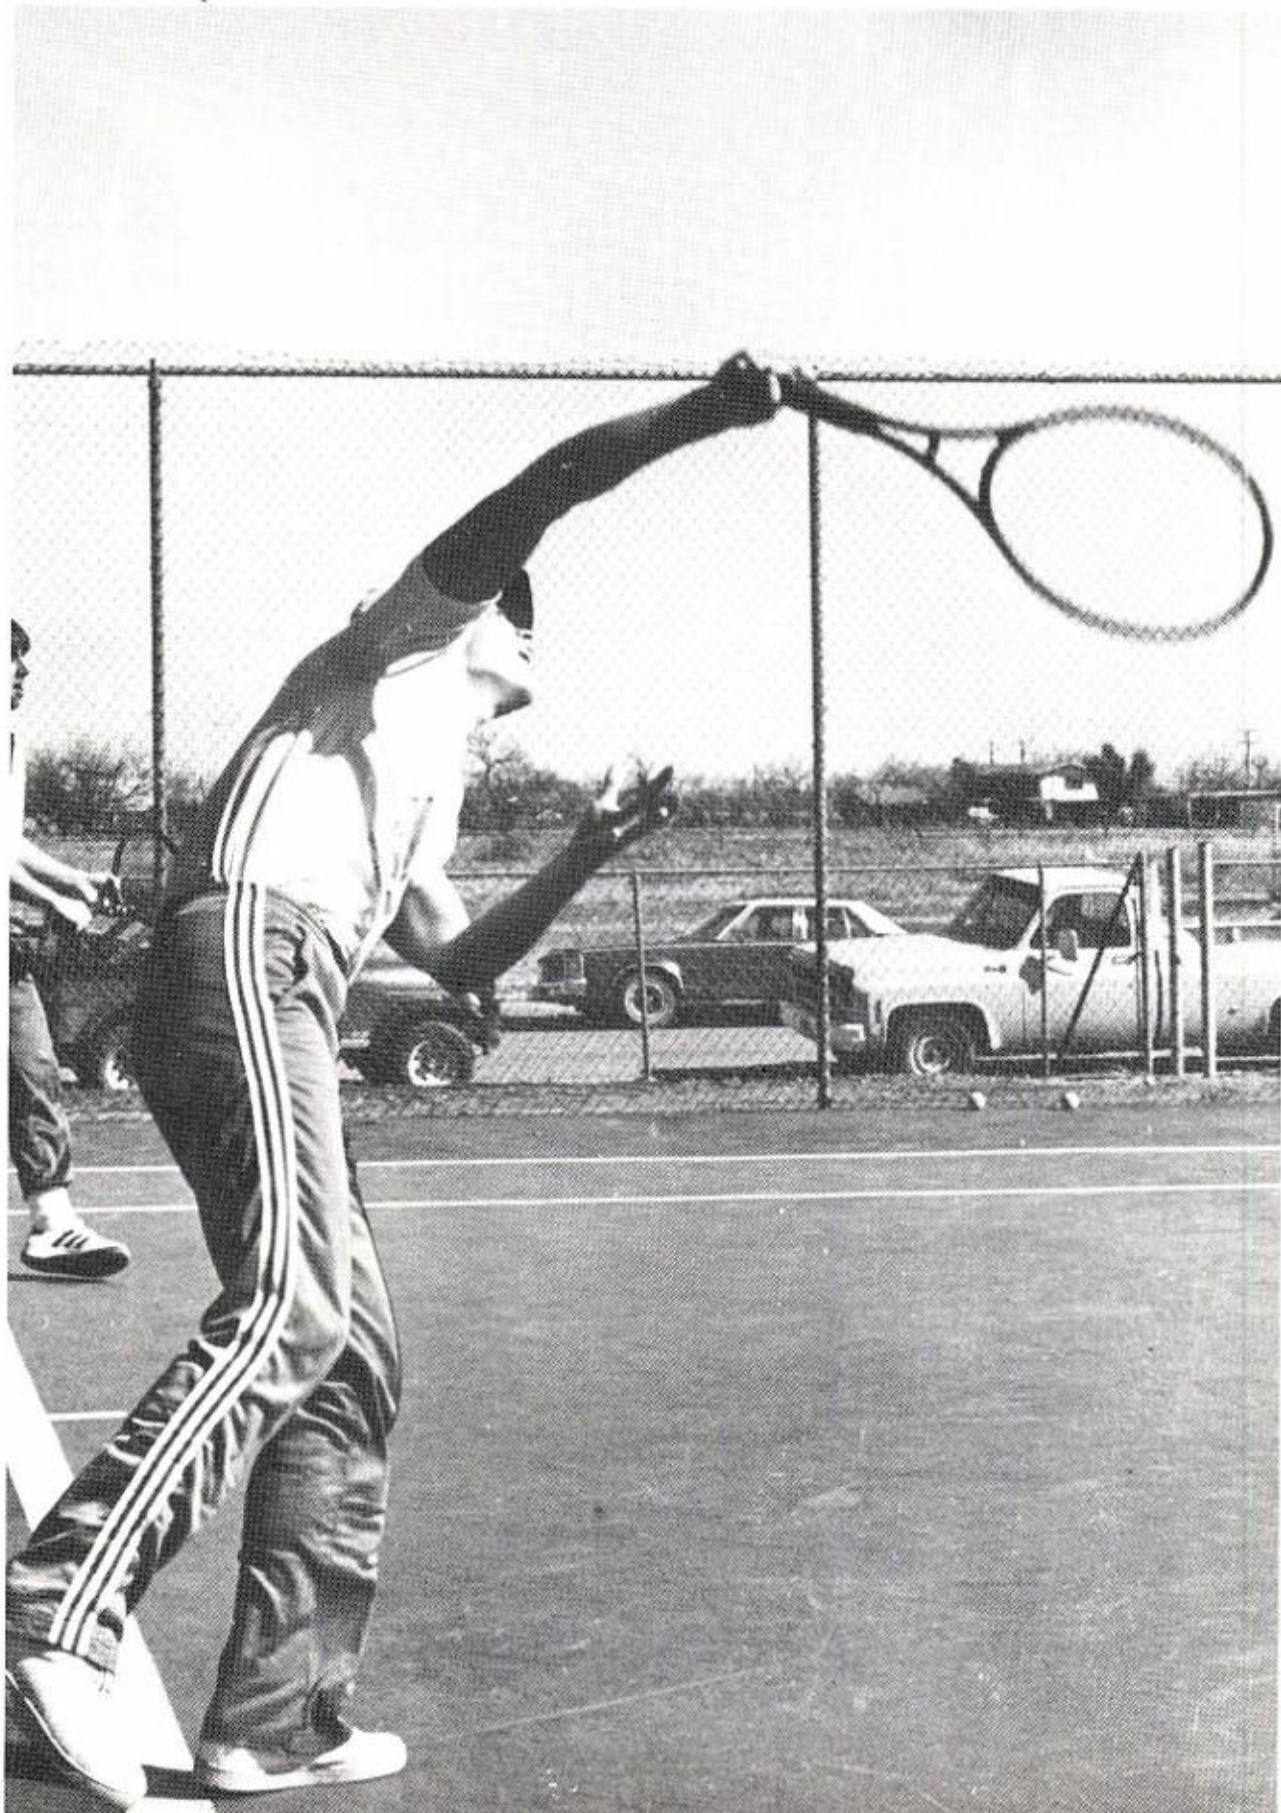

All around the Lake View tennis team has fluctuated between the top three along with Andrews and Ft. Stockton.

Freshmen Strong in Tennis

"The freshmen tennis team has a lot to look forward to," said Coach Felix Lopez. "All the freshmen teams in the past have never let me down and this team is no exception."

There's not really a big freshmen team this year, but they have really done a lot for being so small.

"We have the boys, we just don't have any girls," said Coach Lopez.

One of their most valuable players, Zane Benson, has really done a "good job," said Coach Lopez. "She's really shown interest and worked hard at it," he added.

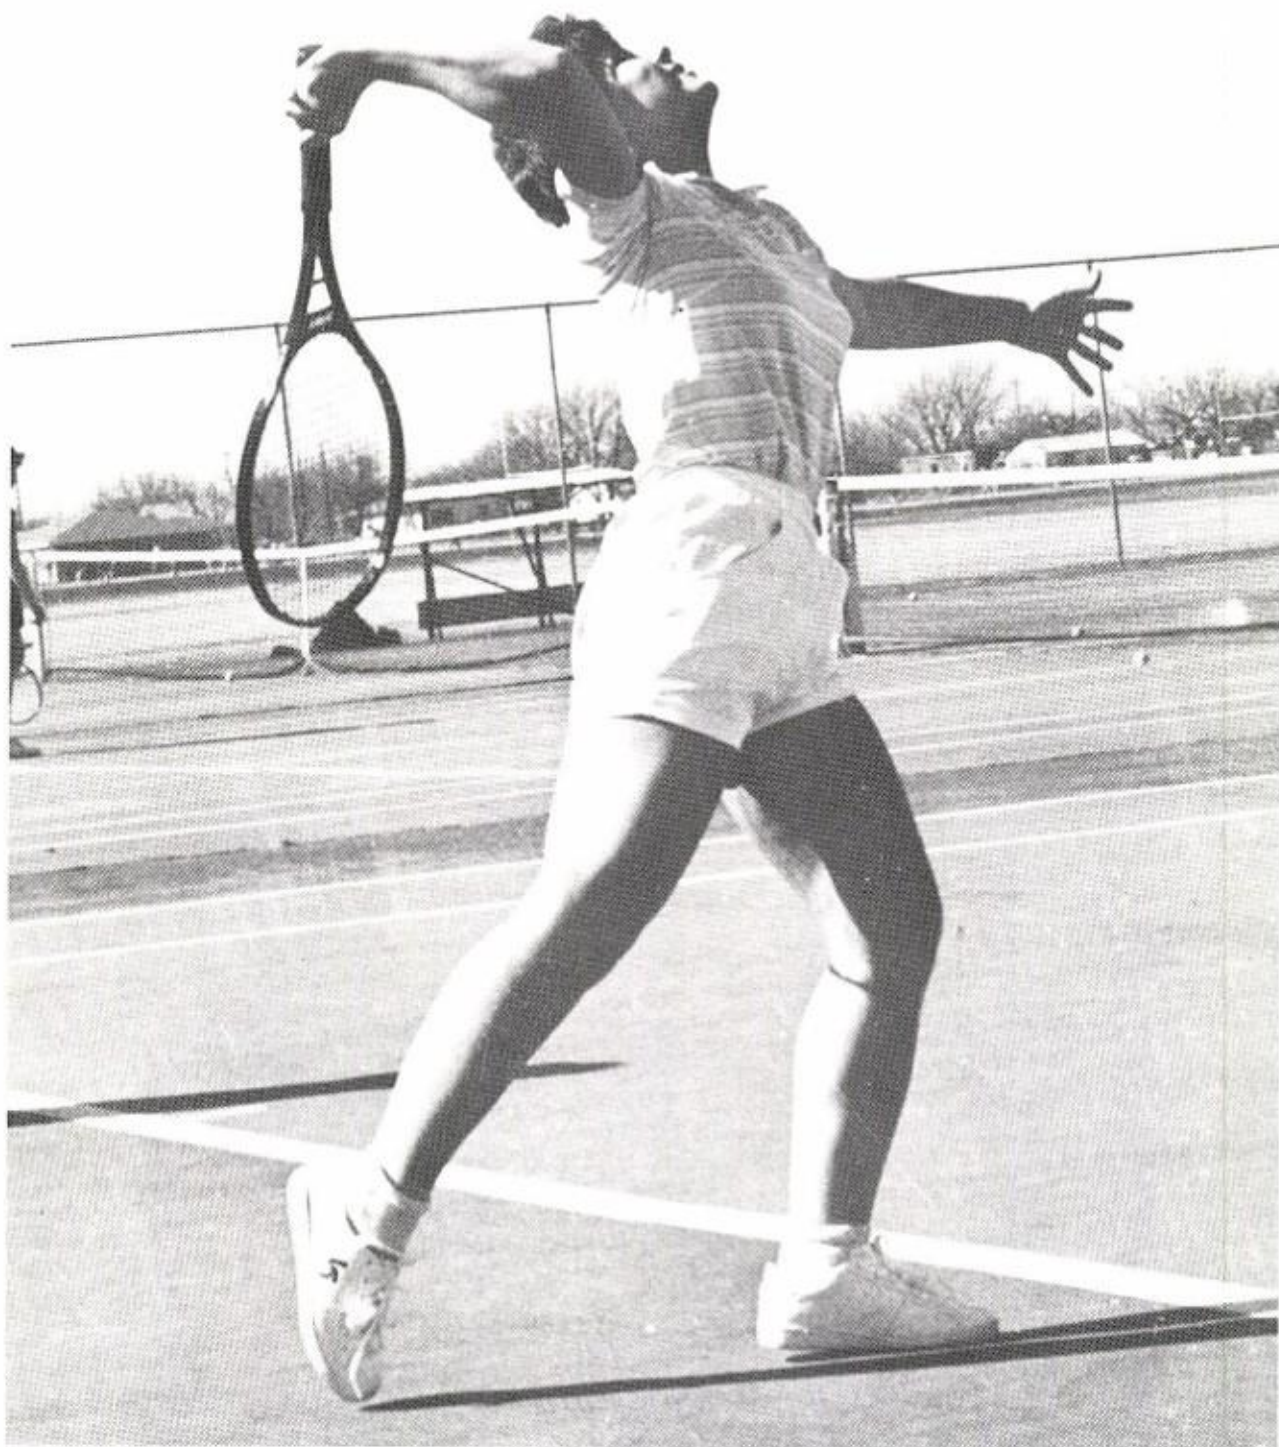

"Since the freshmen boys will be getting a lot better, we'll have a real good season next year," he said.

8 Maids Return for Track

With eight returning lettermen coaches predicted a good outcome for the girls track team. "If last year is any indication, then we'll have hurdles and the 400 meter run licked," said Coach Kathy Wadley.

The eight returning lettermen were Renee Turner, Lori Hoelscher, Lois Cauley, Diane Maberry, Rhonda Mullins, Karen Wright, Cyndi Carr, and Patricia Masavage.

"We have Lori Hoelscher in high jump, Tammy Walker in hurdles and Karen Wright in the 800 meter run which will help us out a lot," said Coach Wadley.

"The past two years in the mile relay we have placed third. This year we hope to place second and go to the regional meet," said Coach Wadley.

"Even though we don't have a whole lot of overall speed, the kids work out hard and give 100 percent in each workout," she said.

Sweetwater won the district meet last year and they will be the main contenders this year, since they only lost one player.

"Hopefully our hard workouts will make up for the talent we don't have in some areas," said Wadley.

3 Return for Boys Track

The Lake View track team started their track season Feb. 24-25 at the Comanche Relays in Ft. Stockton. New track coach Nat Sawyer had 3 returning letterman to the Chieftain track team.

The track team was able to overcome soreness, and able to deal with weeks of hard practicing and preparation for the season.

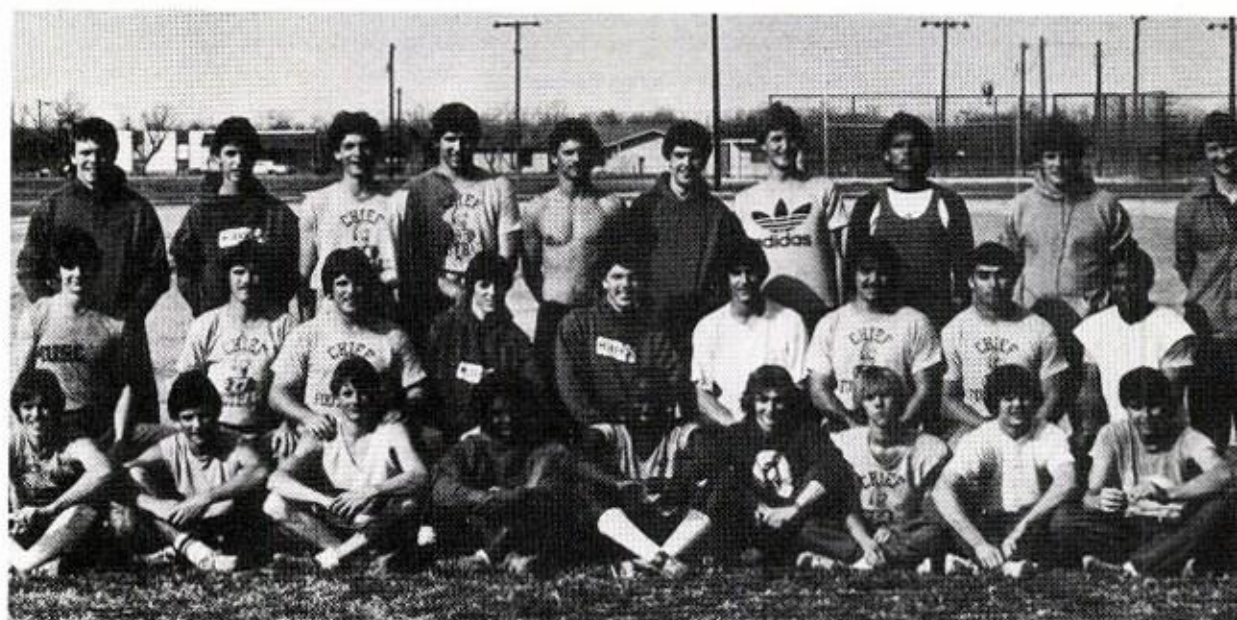

"I feel that this will be a great season, because all of our men are hard workers," said Coach Sawyer.

Individual competition included pole vaulting, discus, shot, hurdlers, sprinters, long distance, high jump, and long jump. Relay teams competition was the mile, 400 meter, and the weightmen run.

During the season, the team dealt with victory, defeat, laughter, and sometimes long, boring bus trips. Some also dealt with nervousness before district, regional, and state meets.

Returning letterman for the varsity track team were David Bunn, Jeff Jones, and Thomas Campbell.

On March 30-31, the team ran in the San Angelo Relays, and on April 19, they went to a 2-4A District Meet here in San Angelo.

SPORTS MAGAZINE

The varsity cheerleaders of Lake View High School held many responsibilities throughout the 83-84 school year. Beginning in the summer, they attended cheerleading camp at Tarleton State University.

At the first of the year they prepared for pep rallies to boost the spirit of the team.

During the year they sold spirit hands, had a garage sale to raise extra money, and made up several routines.

Chiefs Play With

"A lot of people judge a team by how many games they win and how many games they lose. But a team should be judged by how close they came to playing to their potential."

— Coach Gonzales

"It's disappointing not being able to win, but you go to practice and put that out of your mind," said Chief basketball coach Henry Gonzales. "You have to look to the next ballgame!"

And that's what the Chiefs did — ballgame, after ballgame, after ballgame. Although the team's season record was 2-24, they never stopped trying. "Their attitude's been great; the desire has always been there," said Gonzales.

Most teams would find it hard to believe in themselves after so many defeats. Not the Chiefs. "They felt like they could win every ballgame they played," said the Coach. "Every time they stepped out on the court they thought of winning."

Maybe that's what kept them going — the thirst for victory, the hunger for success. Maybe it was Chief pride. But the reason doesn't matter. What does matter is the fact that they did keep going; they never gave up. No one can call them losers for their effort has proved them to be otherwise.

"A lot of people judge a team by how many games they win and how many games they lose," said Gonzales. "But a team should be judged by how close they come to playing to their potential. To me, that's being successful."

FOR CHIEFETTES

Practice Time Takes Hours

Chiefettes are more than pompoms and cheers. "It takes a lot of hard work and dedication," according to Pam Hoelscher, drill leader.

The last two weeks of summer is spent learning new yells and routines during two-a-day practices.

They spend countless hours during the late summer and fall making run-through signs for each game as well as numerous locker and hall signs.

The Chiefettes also devote some of their time selling Booster Cards, to earn money for the out-of-town trips.

"Even though being a Chiefette takes a lot of money and time, it's worth it in the long run," according to Pat Benton, secretary and Teresa Curry, drill leader.

Run-through signs, new yells and routines, and selling Booster Cards are all part of the activities.

Concerts, Competition Fill Choir Calendar of Activities

The choir taught by Mrs. Shirley Robinson was hard at work most of the year preparing for many concerts and events. Their many performances included local concerts such as the Christmas programs held at Fort Concho, Sunset Mall, S. A.

Development Center, Concho Valley Savings & Loan, Grape Creek School, The West Side Rotary and Downtown Kiwanis Clubs, First United Methodist Church and their winter concert at First Christian church.

In January, 20 Soloists went to U.I.L. contest; of those eight received superior or 1 ratings, 10 received excellent or 2 ratings and 2 received good or 3 ratings.

Qualifying for the state meet were Susan Brooks, Gena Wooten, and Ruth Rhyne, all juniors. The state meet will be held May 26 in Austin.

The choir also worked hard selling candy and ads to raise money for their Annual radio night in March, on KBIL. They also worked hard for their U.I.L. choir contest at Midland Lee High School in March. Their Spring Concert, held at Lincoln auditorium was a Broadway Review using taped music with choreography. For their Spring trips in April and May they performed with the band in a Pop Concert.

Deadlines Mean Late Hours

For Journalists

As deadline draws nigh, Lake View journalism students can be found busily working on the yearbook or Pow Wow, trying to get them completed.

Deadlines are like fighting with time. It isn't always a losing battle, but getting the publication out isn't always an easy task.

People may know what deadlines are, but they don't realize the work involved.

For instance in the Pow Wow, deadline consists of typing stories, writing headlines, pasting-up stories, and making corrections. The work is obviously time-consuming and can keep students at school for hours.

In yearbook, each section has its own deadline and the work is different. Each section editor must design his own copy and picture layout and may have to write his own stories.

"We wouldn't be able to put out the newspaper or annual if we didn't have deadlines," said Mrs. Janie DeLaney, journalism advisor.

Deadlines aren't just a word either; the yearbook had to pay a $225 late charge for not getting the yearbooks color section in by the early November deadline.

Karla Wendland, yearbook editor-in-chief, says the final deadline in yearbook is when the bulk of the annual is sent off. She said the day it is to go off you stay at school working on it until 5:45 p.m. then rush to mail it off before 6:00 p.m., when the post office closes.

Youth and Government, a fairly new organization at Lake View, is slowly gaining momentum. Although the YMCA-sponsored group has been in existence in San Angelo for over ten years, Lake View has been involved for only the last three.

According to Mrs. Mary Ellen Emery, teacher sponsor, Lake View started out with only three or four members. This year, membership has grown to ten active participants. "Kids that are doers are the ones interested in the program," she said.

Youth and Government is a learning situation about state government, according to Mrs. Emery. In fact, the students not only learn, they do. "They actually run the government in the (state) capitol for two whole days!" she said.

The only requirement for getting into the Youth and Government program is to be a member of the YMCA. Participants compete at district, state, and possibly national levels in any of four categories: legislature, where bills are introduced to hearing committees, judicial, where attorney teams fight either civil or criminal cases, executive planners commission, and news media. Members who have participated in at least one district conference can run for offices such as governor, trial judge, or president pro tempore of the Senate.

Chess Club Builds Strategy.

Chess, the game of skill and strategy, was introduced to the students on a regular basis through the formation of the new Chess Club.

Groundwork for the organization was actually done during the 1982-83 school year when the by-laws and constitution were written and approved.

"We played in the morning before school, at lunch and after school last year so we decided we might as well form a club," said Tris Darby, president.

Thus, when September came and club sponsors Mrs. Mary Ellen Emery and Coach James "Doc" Smith were found the group was set to go.

Three categories of chess players were set up: beginner, for those just starting; intermediate, for people who have developed some skills; and experienced, for those who have been playing regularly for three or more years.

Inter-club meets were scheduled for each category of player with a champion being named in each division.

Student Council Revives Traditions

The Student Council was busy this year not only with sponsoring Homecoming activities and dances, but also with reviving forgotten traditions and new ones.

The group started off the school year by ordering matching T-shirts, something new for the club. According to Lynne Hardy, Student Council president, the shirts were ordered "to show that we are members of the Student Council and representatives of the school."

December was an especially busy time for council members when they were involved with Christmas projects to benefit both the community and the school. A Christmas Tree, fully decorated with strings of popcorn and lights, along with canned goods collected during a class competition, were taken to a needy Lake View student's family. Hardy said, that the Student Council has never done this before, but she hopes that it will become a tradition and carried out for many years.

A tradition that has been neglected over the past few years was revived this year by the organization. Once again, class members could participate in Christmas skits. The Senior Class, with their version of "If I Weren't Santa's Helper," won the first place prize of twenty dollars.

"The response was real good. I didn't expect so many to participate, but they did," said Hardy.

School Initiates Merit Roll

Creation of a Merit roll and revisions in the National Honor Society's constitution to reflect the "weighted grade point average system" were changes made, according to Mrs. Cheryl Key, NHS Sponsor.

The NHS constitution hasn't had a revision made since 1956.

Mrs. Key said the merit roll or "B" honor roll has been created, "to do all we can to encourage scholastic achievement." She believes those students who barely miss the honor roll should be praised as well.

Students must have a combined average of 80-89 in order to make the merit roll. Students making the merit roll will receive a merit roll card, as is done in the honor roll.

NHS membership may increase now that the weighted grade point average system will be incorporated in figuring averages. This means if a student has or is presently taking above grade level courses 10 points will be added to the six weeks average.

For instance, if a student's six week's average in an AGL course is 94, the computer will read it as 104 and average it with the other five grades.

"Although the weighted grade point system will be used in figuring the honor roll and merit roll systems it still will not appear on the report card," said Mrs. Key. However, each AGL course is so designated on the report card.

BGL courses on the other hand, will have 10 points subtracted from the six weeks average.

Previously, the weighted grade point system was used only in figuring seniors' final grades. Students who do make the NHS with the new system will not be inducted until mid-term.

Subjects that offer AGL classes are: freshmen, sophomore, and junior English, biology, Algebra I, trigonometry, elementary analysis, physical science, physics, plus any other AGL courses offered at Central such as calculus.

Another change of the NHS constitution affects present NHS members themselves. Previously, NHS members could miss one honor roll and receive a warning, but if they missed it again they would be removed from the club.

The change allows students to miss one honor roll per year. If they exceed this in one year's time, they will be removed.

Most signs are used for advertising in one way or another. But at Lake View, signs are used for many different things. During football season many signs, such as football, hall, lockers, pep rally, and run-through signs are used to depict the spirit of the school. One of the signs made by the cheerleaders for the Estacado pep-rally was the best of all season.

Julie Cornelius, senior, added, "We wanted something unique that really got the spirit going in the pep-rally. It was a lot of hard work but well worth the effort."

On Halloween the art club painted at Strike-It-Rich. Lori Boutilier, president, said "the painting brought a lot of unity in the club and spirit that we didn't have before. It also let everyone get better acquainted with the new teacher, Mr.

Willie Zuniga."

Valentine's Day signs made by the FHA to sell carnations gave their sweethearts something for Valentines. Elizabeth Wells, junior, said, "We had to advertise the flowers someway. I made signs and had a lot of fun making them."

Other signs made to advertise different dances throughout the year were also made.

Long dresses, corsages, tuxes, and boutonnieres were seen and not talked about at this year's various club banquets.

The first big banquet of the spring was the office Education Association banquet in February. Sponsored by Mrs. Barbara Purser, the OEA banquet always hosts a large crowd of student employees, community employees, parents and school personnel. This year was no exception as Col. Charles Powell, Goodfellow Air Force Base commander, was the keynote speaker at the banquet for some 200 guests.

The Athletic banquet, sponsored by the Booster Club, featured a student center packed with athletes, Chiefettes, parents and faculty. Outstanding athletes, sweethearts and beaux were honored for each sport. A Student Council-sponsored dance followed the event.

April also brought the Distributive Education banquet which honored student employees and employers as well as Choir and Band banquets which honored outstanding musicians and vocalists.

Taught in Clothing Services

Clothing Services is a class not many people are familiar with. And for obvious reasons. The class is taught at Lincoln Junior High and is limited to only 15 students.

According to Mrs. Betty Oates, vocational teacher, "the class provides on-the-job type atmosphere and students are taught on commercial equipment." The class not only teaches sewing, but also "all phases of getting and keeping a job," she said.

Students may participate in the hour and a half class for two years. Although it is offered to boys, none have ever taken the class.

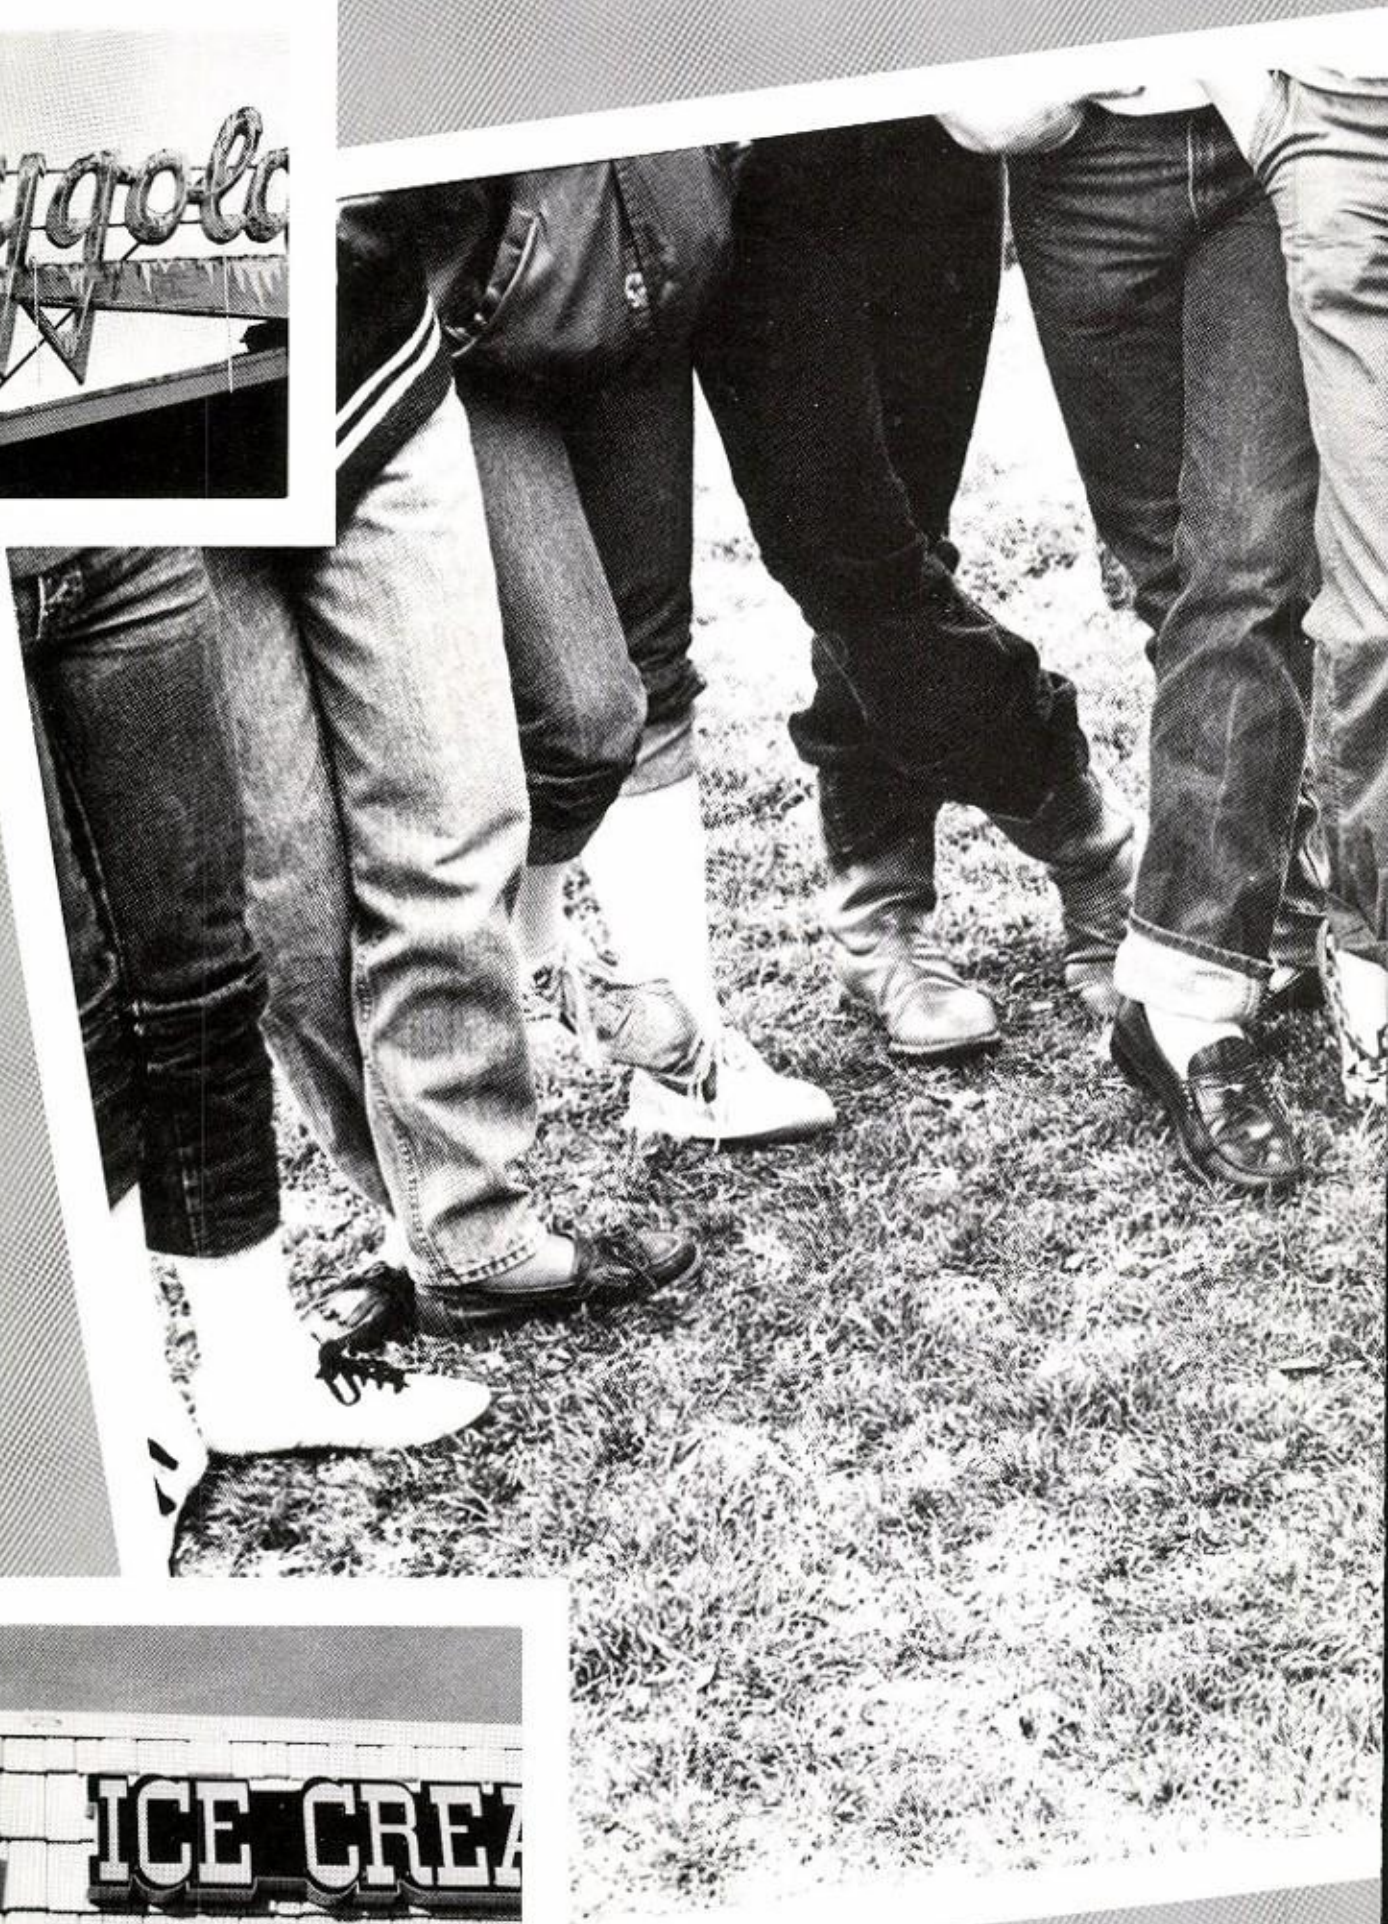

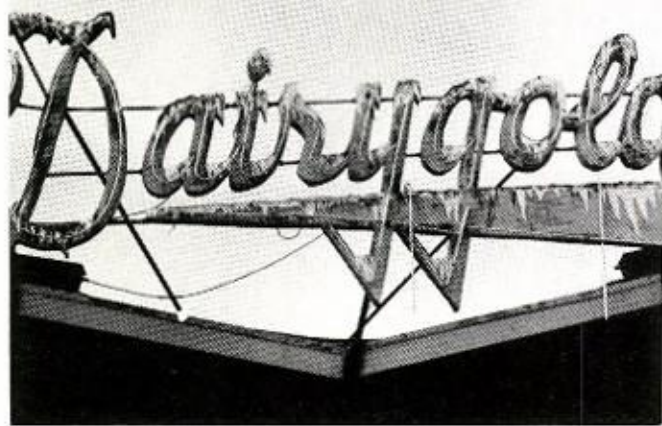

Clothing Services students have done everything from mending band uniforms to making drapes for classrooms. Special projects are done at Christmas time, and in February, Valentine heart pillows are sold. In the spring, students work on their own personal outfits which are later judged by the faculty at Lincoln.

Ropers vs. vans. Oxfords vs. OP's. Wranglers vs. Jordache.

It seems these days that we have a wider variety, a bigger selection to choose from — all claiming to be better, new and improved. With this surge of competition comes advertisement, the Power of Persuasion.

Even though we don't often pay much attention to advertisements, they really have a strong impact in our lives; they determine what we wear, where we go, and what we eat. They even have an influence over what kind of toilet tissue we use.

So have it your way, turn it loose, and America, show us your underalls!

$700 Yearly Given to Students

"The commended student for the week is . . . He will receive a $20 savings account from Concho Valley Savings and Loan (CVSL)."

Every week we hear this announcement and every week CVSL hands over another $20 to the student who is chosen by the faculty for this honor.

For three years the CVSL has been giving out an average of $700 per year.

"We serve the Lake View community, and because of this we give the savings account to only Lake View students," said Maxine Baker, CVSL employee.

"The reason we started this was just to commend the students for their work in the community and for their participation."

1. Jeff Sanders, Jeff Young, Mr. Vincent look at show sheep.

2. Russell Ueckert is hard at work.

3. Mrs. Cost, Geroge Cooper, Thomas Campbell look over homeroom roster.

Performance Power

We started the year playing a brand-new part, maybe experiencing some stage fright. Just when we've grown comfortable with the role, it's time to change characters. Freshmen will perform as sophomores, sophomores will fill the boots of juniors, and juniors will be cast in the leading role of seniors.

As for the all-stars, the seniors, their next debut is graduation, the role is Life. It will take real PERFORMANCE POWER to pull this one off.

1. Senior Jody Linthicum asks, "Orange you smart?"
2. During a pep rally, the Little Man's Marching Band uses signs and flash cards to spell out their support for the Chiefs.

3. Paul Greenway, a reporter for KLST, interviews seniors Lance Maxwell and Don Ware about competing in UIL events.

4. Freshman Kristi Word is caught doodling in class.

PAGE 227

4. The very popular Justin Ropers.

Pyramid Power

During high school we begin to build a solid foundation for our lives. From this foundation we build upward, reaching for the apex, striving for our goals.

Friends (both human and otherwise), education, parents, and fun times are all a part of this PYRAMID POWER, each is needed to add support.

PAGE 228

1. In following the tradition, a group of seniors smile for the camera while building a pyramid.
2. Students work diligently during the newly-offered computer class.
3. Keith Meek, sophomore, "rocks-out" during the pantomime contest.

4. At the basketball game, Mr. Duckworth involves himself with the motions of the game.

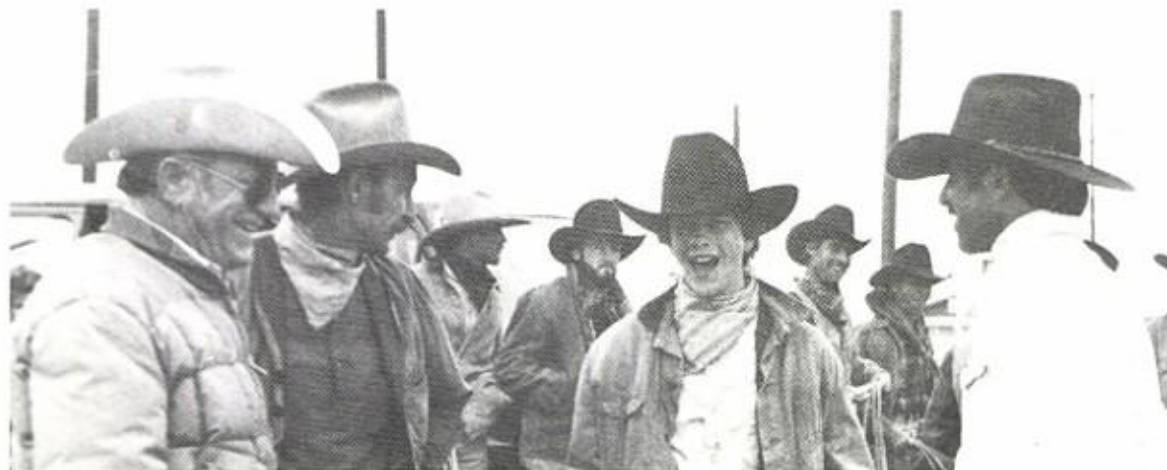

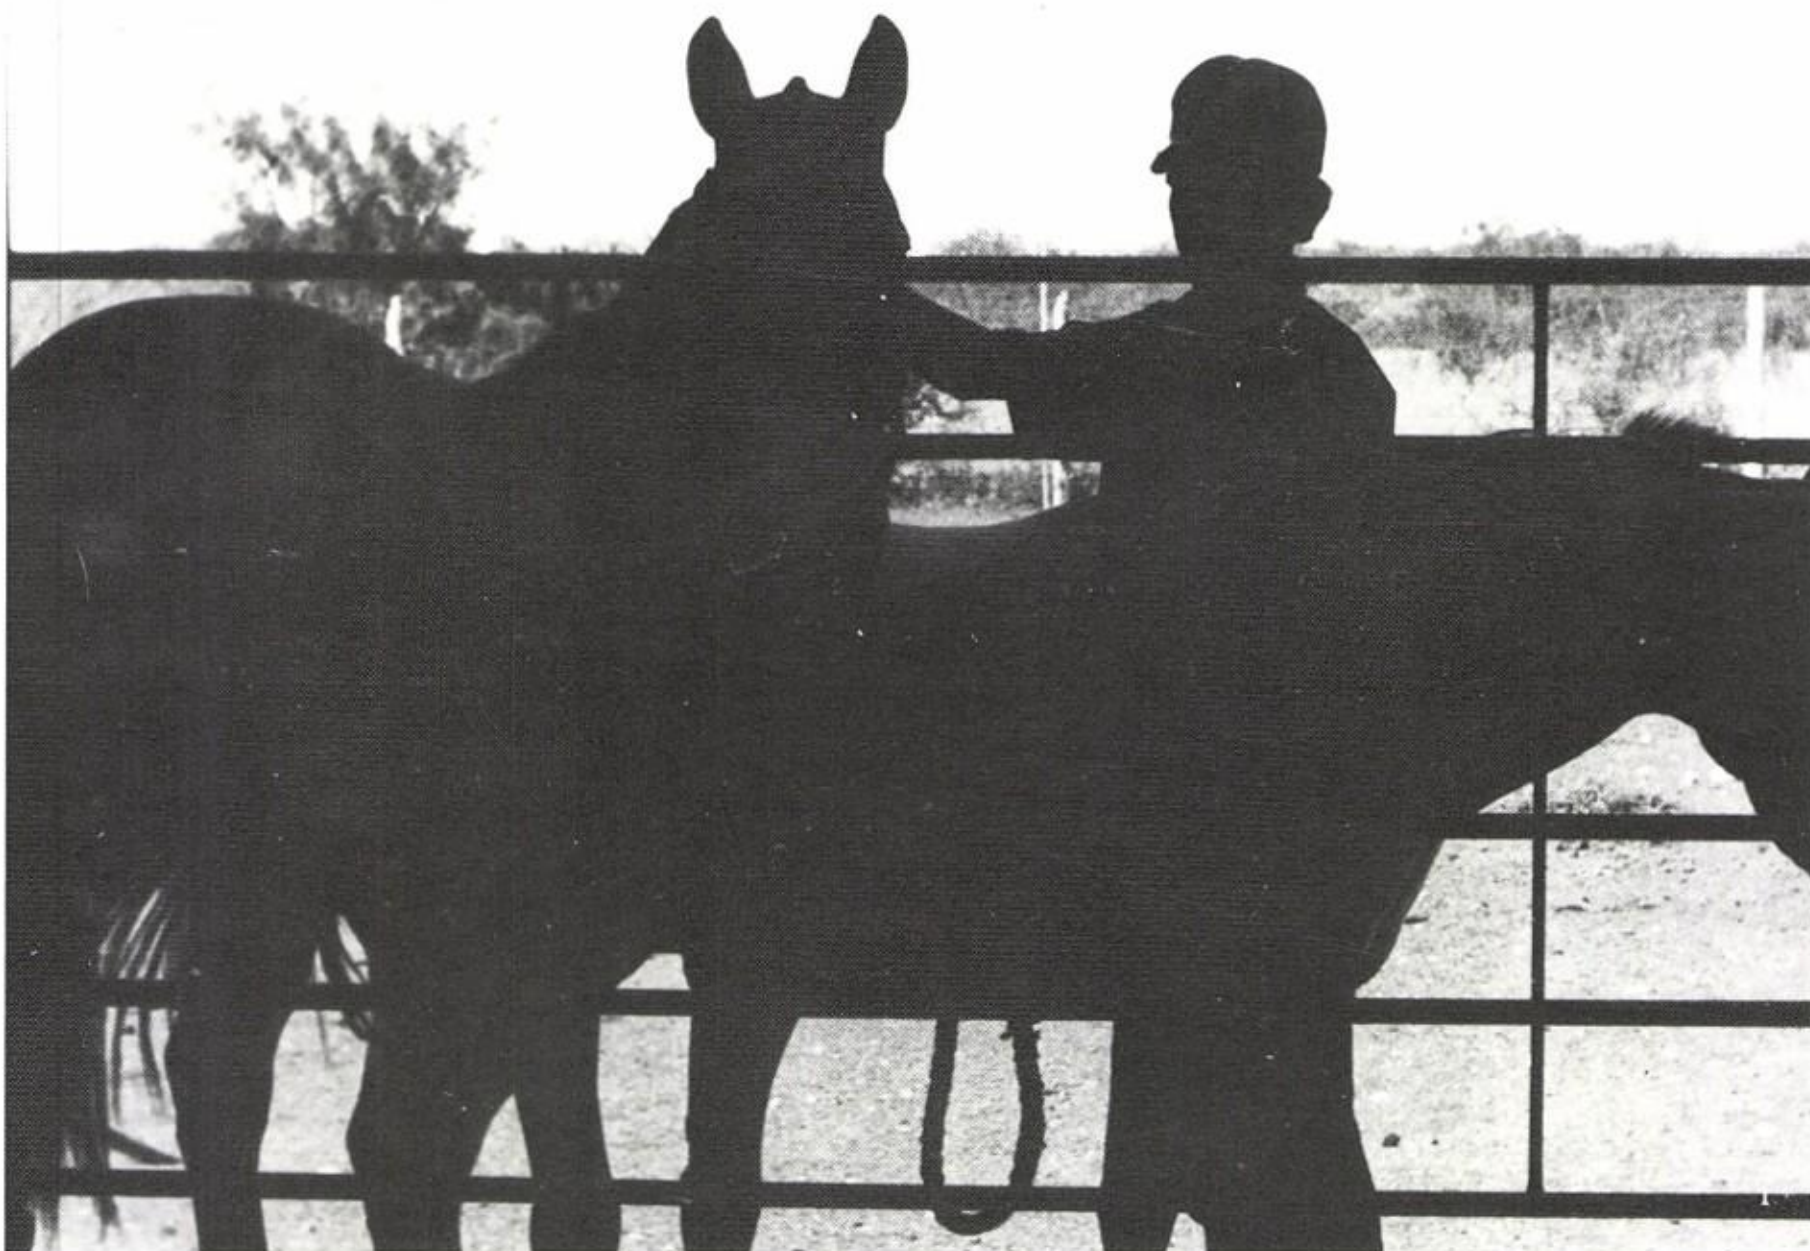

5. Joseph Cone, junior, is absorbed in his science studies.

PAGE 229

1. Tye Mayo, junior, affectionately grooms his horses.

2. Senior Tim Logan paints one of the windows at Strike-It-Rich during Halloween.

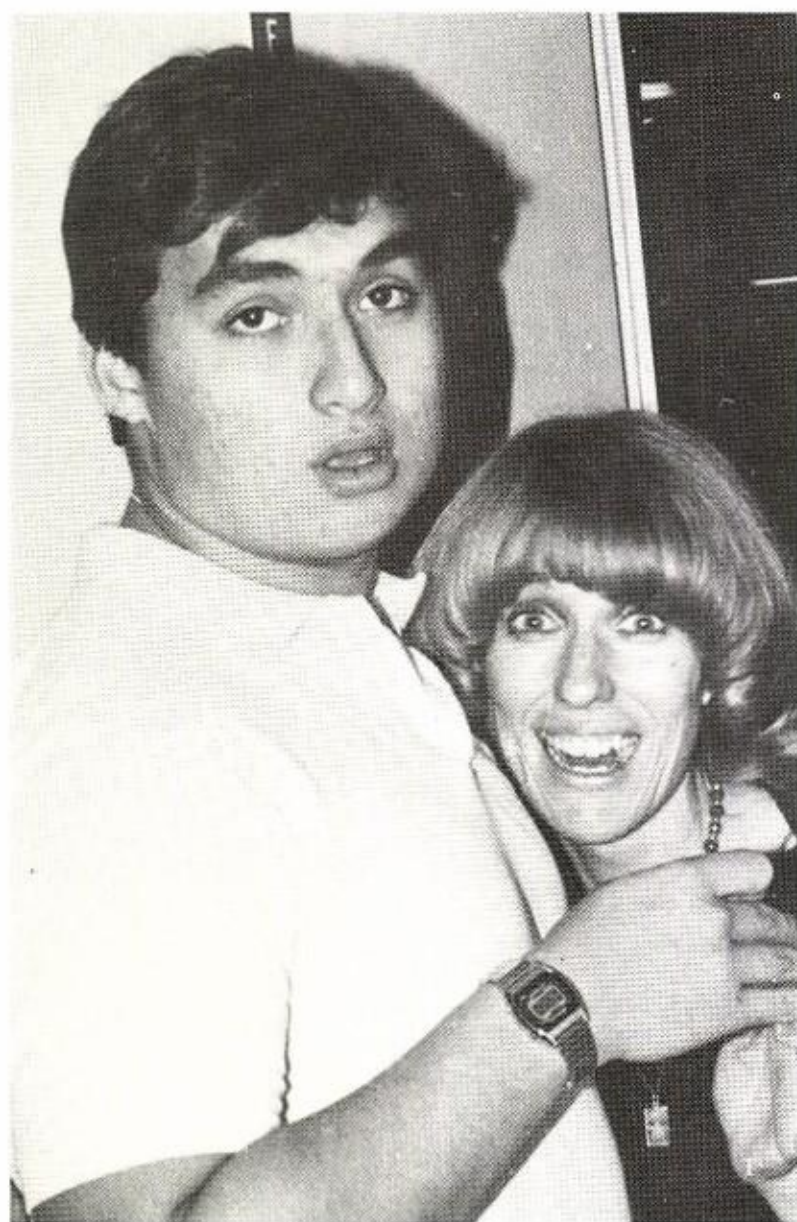

3. Freshman Jeff Sanders chats with his fellow actors at a recently filmed Japanese commercial.

Solar Power

How do you spell relief? S-U-M-M-E-R! Ahhh!

It's time for suntans, lake parties, and three whole months of freedom. We've done our time in the classrooms and now it's time for fun.

Where do we get the energy to stay so active? SOLAR POWER.

PAGE 230

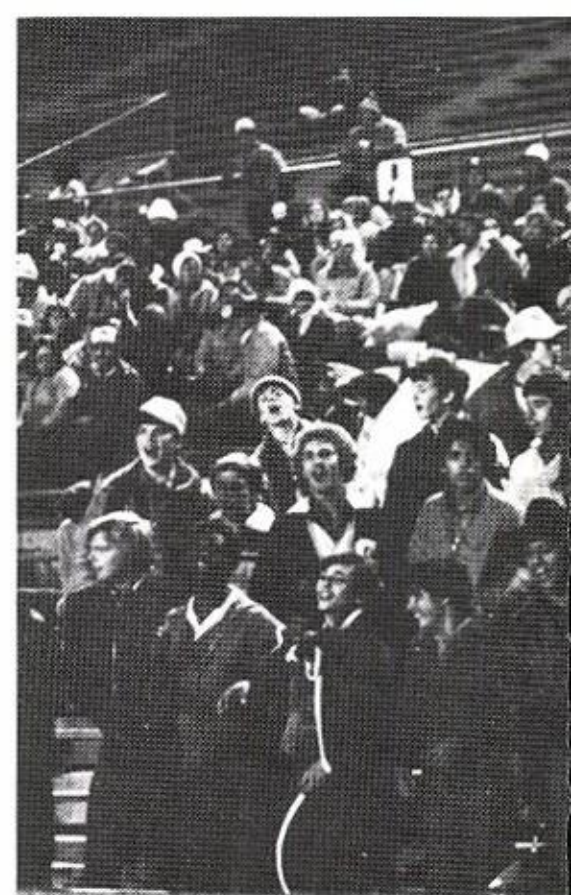

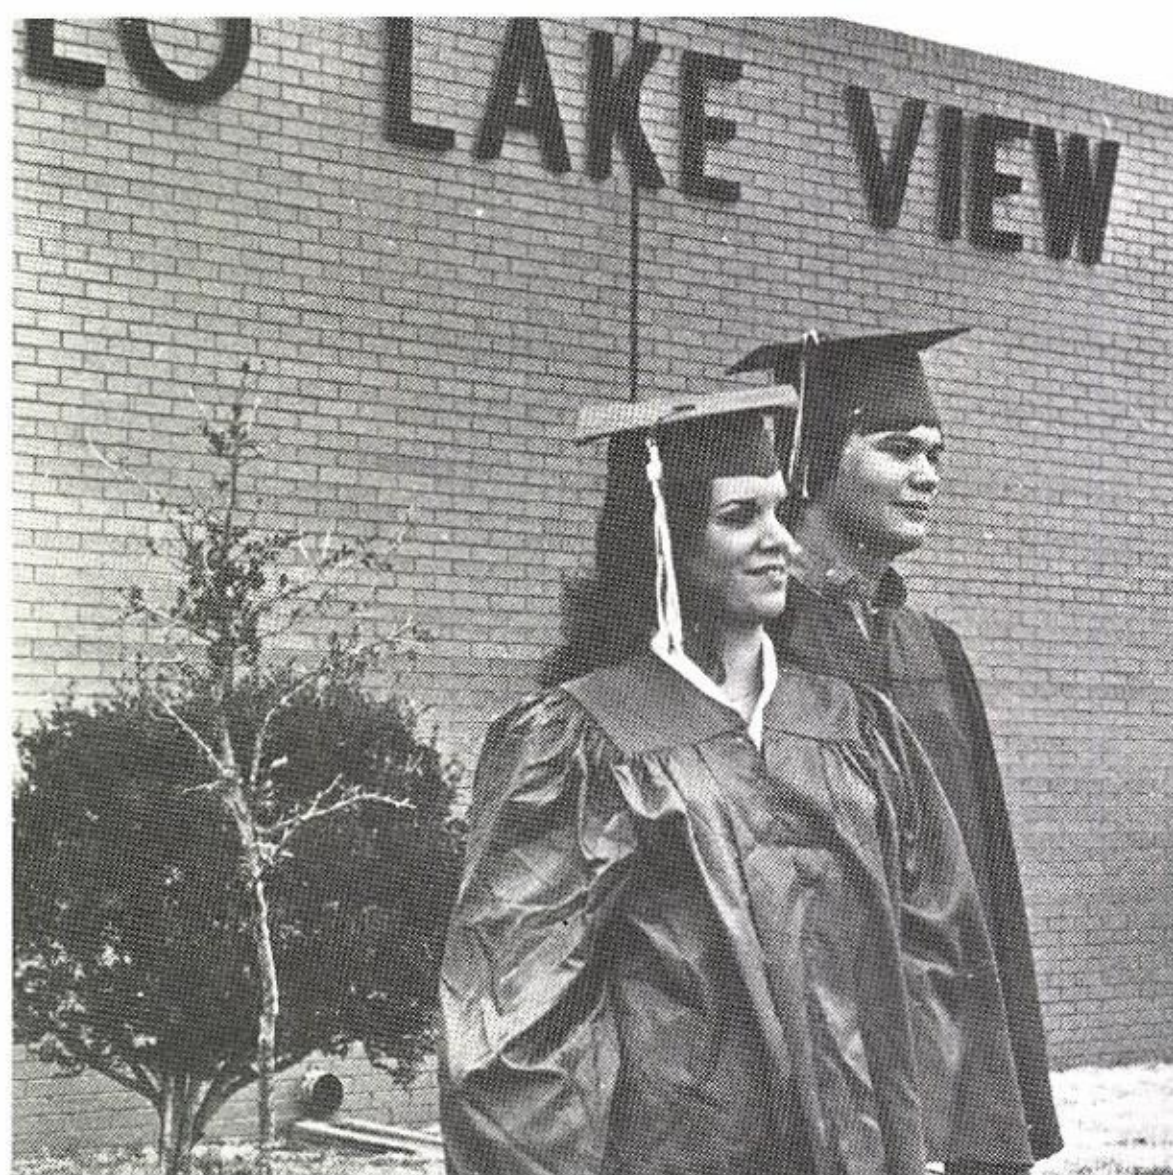

1. Louis Meadows, junior, and Mrs. Barizon are caught in the act of having fun.
2. Coach Norton and Coach Slaughter are once again on the move.
3. Shawn Leonard, sophomore, and Tim Allen, senior, listen carefully as Coach Sawyer explains.

1. Sean Vick "bobs" around at the band Halloween party while Jody Teague, freshman, looks on.
2. The ol' familiar hallway that will some day be forgotten.
3. Excited fans crowd on the stage for a chance to touch their "star."
4. Junior Robin Dehnel giggles during the N.H.S. meeting.
5. Senior Victor Lopez uses a type setter in printing class.

Power Struggle

Just think about how much one year has changed our appearance, our way of thinking, our outlook on life.

Together we grew up and now we're gradually growing apart. For seniors, there's a POWER STRUGGLE. We're sad that our time together has reached an end, yet happy that it's over, relieved that we survived twelve years of education, and at the same time a little anxious about what lies ahead — the rest of our lives.

1. Sophomores Tammy Walker and Lisa Lumpkins smile for the camera during H'coming week.

2. As graduation grows near, Allison Baker and David Dennis look forward to the new freedom ahead.

3. Sophomore Kim Hood is caught in the act of writing a note.

1. The hopeful fans cheer on the Chiefs at the bi-district game against Lubbock.

2. An unexpected February snow falls on San Angelo.

3. Freshman Jennifer Aylor looks forward to her sophomore year.

4. Mrs. Barker reads to Mr. Chapman, the senior English student teacher, in the teacher's lounge.
